VAST WORKS PLAN TO COST 5 BILLIONS IS URGED BY F. D. R.

Congress Receptive to Program Which Will Provide Safeguards Against Future Disasters and Depressions.

BILL ADVOCATES 10,000 PROJECTS

Drainage, Flood Control, Soil Conservation Are Items in New Measure Proposed by President.

Text of Message in Page 2. WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A congress receptive to flood control plans received from President Roosevelt today a $5,011,000,000 public works program to curb ram-paging rivers and prime the economic pump in future depressions.

Though legislators did not comment on the program immediately, leaders indicated it was assured of close attention, especially in view of present floods on the Ohio and Mississippi.

Those two rivers would be included in the plan of water control, which would be combined with a six-year program of public works. The plan was drafted by the Roosevelt national resources committee.

Conditions Better. The President heard today from his flood advisers that conditions in the Ohio (Ill.) area and the lower Mississippi were improved, although the danger period was not past. Chairman C. T. Grayson also reported a continued flow of Red Cross contributions, bringing the total to $12,651,000. Donations were pouring in at the rate of more than a million dollars a day.

The senate paused in its consideration of the $900,000,000 deficiency bill, from which it is planned to finance emergency flood relief needs, to hear the President's brief message suggesting safeguards against future water disasters and depressions. The house has passed the bill.

Long-Range Plan.

Declaring public works had been undertaken "somewhat hurriedly" during the depression emergency, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Now is the time to develop a long-range plan and policy of construction—to provide the best use of our resources and to prepare in advance against any other emergency."

Specific projects, numbering nearly 10,000 in all parts of the country, were suggested in the report, including an $85,000,000 expenditure in the Ohio valley.

The recommendation called for spending $1,038,386,650 the first year and $753,733,438 the sixth year. Distribution would be on the basis of 25 per cent for streets and highways; 24 per cent for irrigation, drainage and flood control; 17 per cent for buildings and equipment; and the remainder for soil conservation, forest conservation and game protection, grade crossing elimination, water navigation and aviation aids, recreation projects, low-cost housing and other public undertakings.

A public works program during time of depression, the resources committee said.

Constitution 'Service Creed' Wins Praise in Washington

Cabinet Member, Senators and Congressmen Congratulate Clark Howell on Editorial Announcing Unbroken Continuity of Policy.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—After reading the signed editorial carried in Sunday's Atlanta Constitution by the new president and publisher, members of the Georgia delegation in congress, together with Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper and others, today dispatched letters and telegrams to Major Clark Howell commending him on his announced determination to maintain the "unbroken continuity of policy" that has marked the paper's "creed of service" for nearly three-quarters of a century.

Georgia delegation members especially were gratified to learn that The Constitution, under its new publisher, will continue to voice a vital interest in affairs of the day and hastened individually to inform Major Howell of their accord.

At the same time, Secretary Roper, himself a southerner and native of South Carolina, found cause for satisfaction in the assurance that policies of the past management of The Constitution will be continued.

Roper Commends Policy. The cabinet officer in commenting the continuation of Constitution editorial policy also paid a warm tribute to the late Clark Howell Sr., with whom he was closely associated in national affairs for a number of years.

"Relatively few men," said Secretary Roper, "are able to pursue a constructive, progressive career over as long a period as that spanned by the life of Clark Howell Sr. Certainly few men have been able to keep themselves so splendidly related to the spirit of their times and so helpful in maintaining that spirit."

"It is very gratifying indeed that he should have so ably trained his successor and that this successor should be his understanding son. We can all be assured of the continued valuable educational plans of The Atlanta Constitution under his management."

Senator George Commons. Senator Walter F. George sent the following telegram to Major Howell: "Have read your signed editorial in Sunday's Constitution, 'A Creed of Service.' It is worthy of the great publishers who made The Constitution and who contributed so much to Georgia, the south and the nation. I continue in Page 2, Column 6.

FLOOD BATTALIONS BELIEVE MENACE IS UNDER CONTROL

Cairo Stands Up Against Greatest Crest While Waters Rise To Dangerous Stages Along Lower Mississippi Valley.

PERIL CONTINUES, BUT HOPE SPREADS

Craig Reassures 'That Everything Is Holding All Right' Below Memphis; Rain Is Forecast.

By the Associated Press. The flood menace so long overhanging much of the country appeared lessening everywhere last night, inspiring hopes that the job ahead was mainly one of consolidating positions against the waters.

The Ohio, reaching its biggest crest of all time at Cairo, Ill., still was held back by that city's lofty levees and the persistence of the men who remained at imminent peril to defend it.

Great danger continued, but hope was better grounded than fear. The Mississippi was rising south to New Orleans. It was above flood stage as far down as Vicksburg, Miss., but General Ma' Craig, the army chief of staff, reassured the people:

"Everything is holding all right in the lower river."

There was a forecast of rain in parts of the Mississippi and Ohio basins—and engineers had said too much precipitation on strategic tributary basins might be disastrous—but the Weather Bureau said the fall would not be heavy enough to work substantial harm.

The government nevertheless turned a sharp eye upon the White, St. Francis and Upper Yazoo rivers, along with their tributaries, which feed the lower Mississippi. A $136,000 allotment for emergency rescue work and levee maintenance was made.

Speaking in a manner generally interpreted to reflect the administration's plans, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the majority leader, at Washington told his colleagues the government would find as many millions as necessary to create a national flood control system at once vast and well integrated.

Meanwhile, the President sent to congress a $5,000,000,000 works

FARM YOUTH HELD IN KIDNAP SLAYING

'Hoodlum' Leads 'G-Men' to Scene of Killing After His Reputed Confession.

WILLOW SPRINGS, Mo., Feb. 3.—(AP) Spread the word: a kidnap slaying of a 17-year-old country doctor on a farm youth turned hoodlum.

Robert Keough, 20, broke down before dawn and led officers to the hidden, short-torn body of Dr. J. C. B. Davis, foremost citizen of this central Missouri community. The physician, who "brought half of the town into the world," had been lured into the country south of here last week on a false call for medical aid.

Keough was spirited away from this town of 1,500 by officers bound for a closely guarded jail cell in Kansas City. Authorities determined to prosecute him on a first-degree murder charge carrying the death penalty.

"He gave us sufficient information that we knew he was the kidnaper in substance," said E. J. Connelley, veteran agent of the Federal Bureau of investigation.

Fifty Club Marks Strickland Promotion in Big Way

Here comes Bob Strickland! and what an exit he made last night as he stepped from his home on Brighton road for the fun and festivity of the Fifty Club's "gridiron" event, doing honor—most mirthfully—to the prominent Atlanta banker. Greeting the "dressed-for-the-occasion" Strickland (center), are Dr. William Campbell, left, and Major Clark Howell, right, one of the banker's aides-de-camp.

RIVERS ADVOCATES CIVIL SERVICE ACT

Governor, Deluged by Job-Seekers, Will Ask Law; Senate Gets Bill.

Handicapped in his conduct of office by a deluge of job hunters, Governor Rivers announced yesterday that, in his message to the general assembly today, he will include a recommendation that the state set up a civil service system for all employees.

The Rivers announcement drew immediate praise from the Georgia League of Women Voters, Miss Josephine Wilkins, of Atlanta, state president, telegraphed the chief executive, "something so going on down where that men lives what works for de trust' company."

And there was. The "Fifty Club" was loose again. The Fifty Club, it is reliably reported, is awaiting only the enlargement of the state's buildings at Milledgeville to move its headquarters to that city.

They were busy late yesterday afternoon and last night with a bar-league, gridiron inauguration of Robert Strickland as president of the Trust Company of Georgia.

In a week moment Mr. Strickland became a member of the Fifty Club. This was when he was an innocent young man fresh from Tallapoosa, Georgia.

It is the custom of the Fifty Club to celebrate with a gridiron affair each time one of its members achieves a memorable advancement. The club has celebrations so often it has adopted the century plant as its official flower.

The original phrase, gridiron celebration, is reliably said to have been inspired by the iron in the pants of some of the members of the Fifty Club. This could not be confirmed.

Typical of the Fifty Club was this induction into office of the erstwhile barefoot boy from Tallapoosa. The city of Atlanta has known of Mr. Strickland's merited selection as president of his institution for weeks. Mr. Strickland has known about it for perhaps a week longer than the city of Atlanta.

National Guard Prevails on City Manager To Halt Police Recruiting; Union To Keep Peace.

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A conference between leaders of opposing sides in the widespread automotive strike adjourned tonight after what Governor Frank Murphy described as a "cordial and judicious" talk. The conferees will meet again tomorrow morning.

William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors Corporation, said "not a thing" was settled. He was smiling when he left the room after four and a half hours' uninterrupted conferring. John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, of which the strike union—United Automobile Workers—is an affiliate, said any statement must come from the Governor.

Martin Silent. Homer Martin, U. A. W. A. president, declined comment. The only others in the meeting, called by Governor Murphy at the "wish of the President of the United States," were John Thomas Smith, General Motors counsel, and Federal Labor Conciliator.

At Flint, city officials and union organizers adopted a three-point "peace" agreement at a conference called by Mayor George Ely, of the Michigan National Guard.

The agreement called for demobilization of the "police reserves" which City Manager John M. Barringer had begun swarming in a few hours earlier.

The United Automobile Workers agreed to keep its men from congregating in such numbers as might create a traffic hazard, and to notify city officials in advance of any plans for a parade or outdoor meeting.

"Stay-in" strikers meanwhile continued to occupy two body plants there in defiance of a court injunction.

In summoning the opposing leaders, Governor Murphy said the purpose was to "formulate a basis of agreement and settlement."

Such action, the Governor said, would avert "the necessity of employing remedies or measures of an extreme character."

Deadline Defied. At Flint, the deadline set by Circuit Judge Paul V. Gadola for striking members of the United Automobile Workers of America to end their 36-day "stay-in" at two plants of the Fisher Body Company passed without apparent change in the situation.

National guardsmen with machine guns trained on plant entrances controlled the trouble spot of the strike, an avenue separating the Fisher No. 2 plant from the Chevrolet Motor Company factories. This street was the scene of riots in which 27 persons were injured January 11.

Knudsen, replying to the Governor's invitation, said the "wish of the President" leaves no alternative except compliance, and promised to confer "with a view to formulating a basis for negotiations."

Lewis entered the conference without comment. After an hour and a half, the con-

Cobb Says: Not Wise To Add Departments

BY IRVIN S. COBB. Copyright, 1937, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Feb. 3. Mayor's it's not wise to add those new departments to the present cabinet right now. True, Madame Perkins shows a patriotic willingness—or shall we say determination?—Not only to look after her own responsibilities as her fellow-secretaries are so careless as to leave out of sight.

Still it's expecting an awful lot of one weak woman who should relieve two more members of their perquisites, duties and authority when the task of trying to take over the other nine present jobs besides her own already has taxed her strength severely. And besides, there's annoying talk that congress may actually oppose the madame's latest little suggestion that she be made practically the supreme power in all labor disputes.

VARIOUS STATE LAWS BAR YOUTHFUL COUPLES IN 'PARADE TO ALTAR'

Some Prohibit Marriages of Foreigners to American Citizens.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Romantically-inclined couples in these United States find a variety of marriage laws confronting their altitudinal intentions.

A veritable legal patchwork of inconsistencies is reflected in the many requirements on age limits, health restrictions, and license regulations for matrimony.

In Tennessee, where nine-year-old Eunice Winstead married a 22-year-old mountaineer, Charlie Johns, there are no statutory provisions governing marriage.

Tennessee stands alone in this respect, but ten states—Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Louisiana, South Dakota, Maryland, New Jersey, North Carolina, Rhode Island and Washington—are close rivals in approval of common law marriage age brackets of 14 for boys and 12 for girls.

The Tennessee child marriage brought a move in that state's legislature to set up laws to prevent such weddings and elicited a call from government officials and others for uniform state laws.

The Tennessee case has a counterpart in the marriage of 12-year-old Leona Elizabeth Roehia to Stanley F. Backus, 18, in Watertown, N. Y.

The minimum age in New York state is 14 years for a girl, but the youthful Watertown bride gave her age as 18 at the time of her marriage.

Nebraska, Ohio, Wyoming and West Virginia offer the sternest age tests, requiring both parties to be 21 years of age to marry without consent, and setting a minimum of 18 years for men and 16 for women with consent.

Health certificates are called for in Wyoming, in addition to calls for health certificates from male applicants, and requires a five-day wait between issuance of the license and the marriage ceremony.

Thirty states set age limits without requiring consent at 21 for men and 18 for women, the nearest thing to a uniform scale in the nation. The range downward is an intricate puzzle. So-called "girl" or "cocktail" laws to prevent hasty and ill-considered marriages are in force in five states, three of them demanding a five-day wait to wed after a license obtained and in two specifying a three-day interval.

Maryland does not recognize a civil marriage. Washington does not give legal status to a common law marriage. Interracial marriages are forbidden by statute in many states, principally in the south.

Arizona denies a Malay or Filipino the right to marry a Caucasian, and specifies Mongolians shall not marry white persons.

Washington and Utah are among states barring marriage of feeble-minded persons. Wisconsin, Utah, Connecticut, Wyoming and Oregon are among those setting up standards based on health or freedom from venereal diseases.

HUSBAND OF 12-YEAR-OLD JAILED AFTER CONFESSION

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The arrest of Stanley Backus, 18, the factory-hand husband of a 12-year-old girl, was announced tonight by District Attorney Carl J. Hynes, who said he would be charged tomorrow with second-degree rape.

Hynes and Detective Samuel J. Roberts asserted Backus had confessed illicit intimacy with the child. The marriage, which took place on January 15 at Carthage, N. Y., had been given approval by parents of Backus and of the bride, Leona Elizabeth Roehia.

Earlier, while the girl wept in pro-

Fugitive Foresakes Family for Prison

McALESTER, Okla., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Jack Brodie, a 42-year-old Washington state highway worker, returned voluntarily to Oklahoma penitentiary today ten years after his escape to complete a sentence "before my children grow up."

Behind him at Colfax, Wash., Brodie left a good job and his wife and four children, the oldest a six-year-old boy.

Warden Jess Dunn said Brodie had 11 months and 28 days left to serve. He was sentenced in 1922 for robbery of a bank at Sallisaw, and escaped from a trusty camp at Ardmore June 13, 1926.

test, the authorities had put her in temporary custody of a children's agent today and began an investigation of her marriage.

Tearfully denouncing the enforced separation from her 19-year-old father-hand husband, Stanley Backus, the child, Leona Elizabeth Roehia, called upon people to "mind their own business."

Unmoved by Leona, and likewise by the fact that the parents of the groom had given approval to the marriage, Juvenile Court Judge Harold F. Foster gave temporary custody of Mrs. Backus to Miss Angie Kellogg, the county children's agent.

Leona, still weeping, was hustled off to a hospital for examination while District Attorney Carl J. Hynes ordered relatives of the husband and wife to appear for questioning.

"Why," complained the mother, "don't you leave 'em alone? Why don't they let them live together like they want to? Leona is only 12, but is really a woman."

The couple, to circumvent a law prohibiting marriage by a girl under 14, represented Leona's age as 18. She left the fifth grade in grammar school.

conduct investigations of every case, Miller said there is no money to distribute to the deserving persons.

More than 800 telephone calls a day pour into the relief headquarters from the 10,000 who are on the emergency relief rolls, but yesterday they were told "no more relief; we haven't the money."

Miller said the situation, already a desperate one, is becoming more acute every day.

COUNCIL WILL DISCUSS RELIEF CRISIS FRIDAY

Cause of Crisis.

Crisis in relief administration was brought about by the opposition of Aldermen Bridges and Carpenter to the department of public welfare. They charged high salaries are being paid many workers while those on the relief rolls receive on an average of $4.70 per month for the necessities of life.

City Attorney Jack Savage yesterday ruled that the same paper which the aldermanic board failed to concur in after its approval by council only, can be taken up again at the special session tomorrow morning.

When the aldermen do not concur in council's action a committee can be appointed to investigate the matter, and upon its recommendation for a paper's passage, general council can again consider and vote it passed over the aldermen.

May Hold Up Paper.

Bridges and Carpenter have announced they will hold up any resolution paying the welfare board $25,000 for February relief until the next meeting, as each alderman has the right to do.

However, it was predicted that if council again approves the release of the money and it is held up, the welfare board may consent to continue operation upon money contributed by the county until the city's donation can be released. The resolution passes favorably, it will go to Hartford for approval after being held up until the next council session.

The next regular meeting of council is scheduled February 15. This may develop that the mayor will be able to release the city's money to the welfare board on that date. The welfare board threatened resignation to take effect February 15.

An unofficial poll of the board of aldermen reveals that Aldermen I. C. Bailey, F. A. Gilliam, Frank H. Reynolds and Roy E. Callaway favor the relief allocation, while Bridges and Carpenter oppose it. The latter two favor abolition of the department of public welfare.

The city through its director of relief, Council itself voted 10 to 2 for release of the fund.

No City Machinery.

However, the city has no provision for handling relief at present and before the city could care for the 10,000 unemployed who would be thrown upon it and the country if the welfare department ceases operation, it would have to devise a method of investigation of cases and ways of distribution as relief to the poor and needy.

"Some form of relief must be carried on," Hartford declared, as he called the council session. "Even in good times the city contributed relief to emergency cases. Some of these people have no one to care for them and it is the duty and obligation of the government to see they do not starve."

Hartfield is under authority by council vote to appoint a committee for a thorough investigation of the Welfare department and its activities. Chief criticism is directed against the welfare administration is the amount of salary paid several administrative directors of the department. The average salary of the workers is $82.60 per month, Miller reported.

WORKS BILL INCLUDES PROJECTS FOR GEORGIA

$5,000,000 To Provide Flood Protection, Drainage on Savannah River.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt transmitted to congress today a report from the national resources committee recommending federal projects aggregating $5,000,000 in Georgia.

The report said beginning of work on the proposed $22,000,000 Clarke Hill dam in South Carolina should await completion of a recommended power-market survey.

Projects recommended for immediate construction included:

Savannah River—Augusta: Flood protection, $885,000; Augusta, completion of lock and dam, $882,000; Augusta, drainage, $151,000; Fort Screven beach erosion, $92,000; six Georgia counties, drainage, $390,000; Savannah, channel to ocean, $467,000.

St. Mary's-Savannah: Improvements lakes and forestry near Waycross, $293,000.

Thomasville: Sewer improvements, $94,000.

Malcolm control in 25 Georgia counties, $491,000.

Atlanta, filtration plant, $695,000.

Eufaula, Ala., water supply improvements, $105,000.

Five Alabama and Georgia towns, waterworks and sewer systems, $258,000.

Rome, waterworks improvements, $240,000.

SUNDAY BEER SELLER GETS SUSPENDED FINE

Because he "acted in good faith," Andrew Varelles, 47, operator of an establishment at 116 Merritts avenue, N. W., in the Techwood housing project, received suspended fine and probation for selling beer on Sunday.

Varelles, who lives at the Y. M. C. A., was arraigned before Recorder John L. Cone following his arrest Sunday as police made the first case for alleged violation of the "no beer on Sunday" ordinance.

Bond Almond, assistant city attorney, told the court investigation revealed Varelles was under the impression that being on government property did not put him under municipal jurisdiction. He testified he did not know of the recent congressional ruling which allows police to arrest in federal housing areas.

Fines of $50 on the beer sale charge, and $50 on a charge of possessing punchboards, were then suspended.

FLEMINGTON, Va., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Delvera Johnson, whose husband, Robert Johnson, has been missing eight days in a mine, collapsed tonight from worry and strain. She insisted her husband is alive. Leaders of more than 100 volunteers who splashed their way through the pit assured they would know by morning whether Johnson drowned in a large pool of water 800 feet from the abandoned mine entrance.

Surgeons Tell of New Bone Nailing As College Opens Sessions Here

Surgeons attending the three-day southeastern sectional sessions of the American College of Surgeons yesterday heard nationally-known specialists describe treatments and operations developed recently to ease the pain and suffering of humanity.

Of greatest interest, perhaps, among the visiting surgeons, was an exhibit and explanation of the procedure followed for "nailing" fractured bones.

This advance in treatment, which has been used in Atlanta extensively for more than a year, is termed by surgeons to be one of the greatest boons to aged men and women found in recent years.

Through its use persons suffering a fracture of the neck of the femur—the thigh bone near the hip joint—can be out of bed within a week instead of spending two or three months in their bed.

The nail, approximately five inches long, is lodged through the fractured section of the bone, holding it in place. Incidentally, doctors said, the persons suffering a fracture of the femur, mainly those of considerable age, usually fracture the bone by the act of tripping, and not through abrupt collision with the floor.

Clinics Available.

A wide range of operative clinics was offered visiting surgeons yesterday with major hospitals of the city co-operating. Later the work of the meeting was continued at the Biltmore hotel, where specialists conducted lectures and exhibited motion pictures demonstrating technique of operation and treatment of various diseases.

Also held during the day and night sessions were conferences on hospital problems.

Dr. W. S. Rankin, director of the Duke Endowment hospital section, outlined procedure for control of surgery in large and small hospitals.

High educational standards for admission to nursing schools, a revision of curriculum in the school to result in higher standards for graduate nurses, together with a readjustment of the attitude of the public to the cost of nursing care was urged by Miss Leticia C. Leavelle, educational director at Grady hospital.

Dr. Gilson Colby Engel, of Philadelphia, urged greater co-operation between hospital departments in care of patients, and outlined the procedure for this interdepartmental organization.

More complete follow-up procedure following discharge of patients from a hospital, with more detailed records were urged by Dr. James T. Nix, of New Orleans.

Babies Increase.

An almost 20 per cent increase in the number of babies delivered in Atlanta hospitals was revealed in a speech by Dr. Marion T. Benson, of Atlanta. Dr. Benson said that in 1930 the total births in Atlanta were 5,492, with 67.10 per cent delivered in hospitals. Total deaths were 46. In 1935, he said, the total births were 5,587, with 84.33 per cent delivered in hospitals. Deaths were cut to 25.

In tracing the reduction of the number of deaths, Dr. Benson outlined the increase in pre-natal care, additional hospital precautions and improved post-natal care.

Dr. Frank E. Adair, of New York, a nationally-known specialist in the X-ray and radium treatment of cancer, urged that the system of education for the lay public on cancer be maintained as simple and direct as possible.

Miss Helen Branham, superintendent of the Ware county hospital at Waycross, discussed the compilation of records by hospitals from surgeons, and outlined methods of procedures for securing complete data.

Frequent conferences of the surgical staff and other hospital attendants were urged in a talk by Dr. J. F. Highsmith, of Faversham, N. C., who recommended that the organization to attain complete co-operation between members of the staff and other departments. He urged more attention be given to the health of the staff.

CONSTITUTION LAUDED FOR 'SERVICE CREED'

dially commend you."

Senator Richard R. Russell Jr. dispatched the following:

"Heartily congratulate you on the splendid 'Creed of Service' expressed in your editorial of January 31. Urged by such high ideals The Constitution cannot fail to go forward as an increasing instrument of service to Georgia and the south."

Georgia Delegation Encouraged.

Particularly were Georgia delegation leaders interested in that section of the editorial touching on the future motivating purpose of The Constitution's policy.

"The future, as in the past, the motivating purpose of The Constitution will be to fight militantly for progress and reform; to condemn the public plunderer; to expose corruption in public office; to cherish democratic principles; to be loyally democratic, but not blindly partisan; to be interested in that but not in—politics."

Representative Carl Vinson, of Millersville, dean of the Georgia house group, said:

"The 'Creed of Service' editorial policy announced by the new management of The Constitution should be an inspiration to all officials and public spirited citizens. It is extremely gratifying to know that a great paper is to be continued on the same high plane that has characterized its position of influence in the past. There was never any cause to feel otherwise about it. The Constitution is an institution closely woven with the future no less than the present and the past."

Congratulations From Owen.

Representative Emmett Owen, of Griffin, said:

"It is encouraging to learn that the son of one of the south's greatest editors is following in his father's footsteps in the matter of making The Constitution reflect the ideals and aspirations of all Georgians. You editorial in the January 31 issue entitled 'A Creed of Service,' makes it evident that you are following the policies of your distinguished father and I congratulate you heartily."

Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, sent this telegram: "Have read with much interest editorial in January 31 issue entitled 'A Creed of Service.' Permit me to congratulate you upon this fine statement which must be an inspiration to the people of Atlanta and Georgia. Atlanta is fortunate in the fact that you are to continue the policies of your father and I congratulate The Constitution on the elevation of yourself to the position of one of the great newspapers of the South. The Constitution is a great institution and I am sure that it will continue to be a great institution for many years to come."

Congratulate Georgians.

Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton: "Have just read your editorial, 'A Creed of Service.' No man guided by the high principles announced by you can fail of success and no man of your ability so guided can fail. I congratulate you on your adherence to the record of more than half a century established by your distinguished forebears and congratulate the people of Georgia and publisher and likewise The Constitution as one of its outstanding leaders of sound public opinion."

Actress Will Star In Traffic School

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 3.—(AP)—When Mrs. Virginia Meyer Hymer, blonde actress, drove at the rate of 55 miles an hour January 13, she was hurrying to reach a physician to aid her son, Richard, suddenly stricken seriously ill, her lawyer said in court today.

Justice Cecil Holland, however, fined Mrs. Hymer $25, put her on 30 days probation, suspended her license for three months and ordered her to attend traffic school.

Mrs. Hymer, the wife of Actor Warren Hymer, has been accused of speeding and reckless driving before.

realizing these high purposes and worthy ideals. Regards.

Representative Braswell Deen, of Alma, wrote:

"I have just read with particular interest the editorial entitled 'A Creed of Service' signed by you and appearing in Sunday's edition of The Atlanta Constitution."

"Foundation Stones."

"I hasten to write you in order to tell you that it is one of the finest editorials ever written. It is a gem and masterpiece."

"The history of The Constitution, the policies enunciated in your editorials and the objectives to be sought and obtained are indeed more than a creed of service—they are foundation stones upon which you will build a greater newspaper, a greater state and help to mold public opinion and a prosperous and more progressive south."

"I congratulate you and you have my sincere good wishes and co-operation."

Representative Paul Brown, of Elberton, said: "I congratulate you on the splendid 'Creed of Service' expressed in your editorial of January 31. Urged by such high ideals The Constitution cannot fail to go forward as an increasing instrument of service to Georgia and the south."

A number of similar messages went forward to Major Howell from other members of the delegation and Georgians holding official positions with the government in Washington.

Constitution Staff Fingerprinted for FBI Records

Not a police lineup, but Constitution staff members making sure that their identification can always be made quickly through fingerprints in the civilian file of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, D. C. Left to right are Hiram Romans, Thad Holt, Sarah Traylor, Constitution editorial department employees; Joe Bray, of the Atlanta police fingerprint bureau, and Captain B. W. Seabrook, head of the department.

Fingerprinting Gains Favor Here As Constitution Staff Sets Pace

Fingerprinting for protection has proven extremely popular with employees of The Constitution, which is leading the movement in Atlanta industry for providing voluntary fingerprinting of its employees.

The greatest handicap to fingerprinting, according to Captain B. W. Seabrook, of the Atlanta police fingerprint bureau, has been public apathy . . . and fear of dirty fingers. But in the case of The Constitution, he finds that easy access to record cards and provision for fingerprinting of employees has resulted in a 100 per cent desire to have the prints taken.

Once taken, the prints are sent to the civilian fingerprint file of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, D. C., where they are readily available for identification purposes in event of serious accident, amnesia and death.

It is understood that Mayor Hartsfield, interested in The Constitution movement, and delighted at the ready acceptance of the plan, is planning to initiate a similar project for employees of the city, while other large industries have contacted Captain Seabrook for his assistance in providing the service for their employees.

Individuals can have their prints taken at the police station at any time during the day, and thus be assured of protection.

Atlanta Population Now 289,000, City Directory for 1937 Reveals

If every woman in Atlanta 17 years of age and over suddenly decided to get married here, the city would be faced with the necessity of importing some 19,000 men to take care of the emergency, it was learned yesterday when the Atlanta City Directory Company began issuing the 1937 edition of the annual publication.

Women of Greater Atlanta hold a majority of nearly 19,000 over the men, having increased their numerical dominance by about 500 over last year.

The big book tells a lot about Atlanta and her people.

From it can be learned who is married and who is single (subject to change with customary notice from the courthouse), who owns his home and who rents, who the "bosses" are and who are employees and even who has a telephone.

Distinction also is made between heads of families and roomers, corporations and partnerships, and white and negro.

City's Progress Told.
The story of Atlanta's business and industrial progress of the past year is told throughout the pages of the directory. Atlanta has added 41 varieties of enterprises to its already highly diversified commerce, bringing the total number of groups to 744.

With its graphic record of a great cosmopolitan center in picture, prose and statistics, this book is a far cry from its forerunner of 1859, just as the city of today overshadows the town as it stood at the outbreak of the War Between the States.

A total population for Greater Atlanta of 289,000 and a population of the Atlanta metropolitan area of 408,450 show a significant increase over the 1936 edition, but the gains over the directories of six or seven years ago are remarkable.

Record Population.
By 1930 the city directory had climbed to 164,352 names and then an era remembered as the depression took its toll in the city directory, as in practically everything else. But by 1936 there were 190,844 names registered and this year sets the all-time high of 206,848—a total of 7,000 more than ever has been found in the book before.

These names, according to the custom of the directory census takers, include only persons 17 years of age and over.

There are 16 Edwards and only one Wallie listed in the book. And it is surprising in a way to find there is only one Chapter in the ponderous tome.

And if you want further unusual names, consider such surnames as Sorrow, Laughter, Sunshine, Lightning, Snowball, Fairweather, Raindrop, Broadwater, Prettyman, Character, Idol, Outlaw, Tiger, Goldring, Silvertooth, Highnote and Trizzer.

A new feature, the designation of homes and places of business having telephones, has been inaugurated in the street directory section of the current issue.

In all, the book contains a total of 2,140 pages. Or, to put it in words understandable by everyone, about twice the number of pages in "Gone With the Wind."

NAMED IN $427,000 THEFT.
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(P)—District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan said tonight that John Oler, one of three suspects held in the kidnapping of John J. ## BYRD TO HEAD GROUP IN NEUTRALITY DRIVE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—(P)—Headquarters of the emergency peace campaign announced today Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd has accepted the honorary chairmanship of a "no-foreign-war-crusade" to be started April 6.

The headquarters is now directing a series of meetings in hundreds of cities "to build support for effective neutrality legislation." The "no-foreign-war crusade" will be followed next fall by a program "aimed at easing economic tensions."

Throughout the campaign, it was stated, "efforts are being made to coordinate people all over the country into articulate groups able to withstand the inevitable flood of propaganda which will follow a European or Asiatic war."

PONTIFF CHEERED

Pope Sits for Several Hours in Sunlight.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 3.—(P)—Pope Pius was cheered today by warm sunlight. He sat for several hours in a glass-enclosed gallery adjacent to his apartment.

He was taken to the loggia, overlooking the courtyard of San Damiano, on his movable divan. There he received several Vatican dignitaries, despite the fact he had spent a restless night.

Vatican sources said a comprehensive medical bulletin might be published tomorrow or Friday, marking the close of the holy father's second month of sickness.

HEALTH AUTHORITIES SAY— "WATCH YOUR COLD" IT'S DANGEROUS do these things now

HEALTH AUTHORITIES SAY:

1. Confine your diet to fruit juices, toast and tea.
  2. Drink plenty of water.
  3. Stay away from strong laxatives.
  4. Stay in bed and take plenty of rest.
- ... and don't neglect to rub your chest with Penetro tonight!

"WATCH COLDS," say authorities. Don't take chances. Already throughout the land, winter's most potent enemy to health is attacking on every front. Words like "influenza," "la grippe," "pneumonia" and the like are appearing daily in newspapers from Maine to California. What does this mean to YOU? It means DANGER! It means PRECAUTION! It means COMMON SENSE!

Don't relax your vigilance. At the first sneeze, try the famous "2-drop treatment" of Penetro Nose Drops. Two drops in each nostril and you can feel relief. Penetro Drops contain ephedrine and other approved medication to help relieve stuffiness, soothe the inflamed area and make breathing easier.

If you have a heavy chest cold, DO THIS TONIGHT: Rub Penetro on your chest and throat, follow with hot cloth. Remember, Penetro is DIFFERENT in TWO ways: First, it is made with a mutton suet base. This feature helps to make Penetro the ideal "counter-irritant" because mutton suet helps to conserve and concentrate body heat which in turn enables the stronger medication of Penetro to stimulate the blood to greater activity, thereby helping Nature to break up congestion. Second, Penetro is stronger. Actual laboratory test proves Penetro to have 113% to 227% more medication than any other nationally sold cold salve. Not only does it bring relief by its counter-irritant action, but the aromatic vapors of Penetro are inhaled into nasal passages to relieve stuffiness and help soothe the inflamed area.

That's why so many people depend upon stainless, snow-white Penetro to bring relief from tight, deep-seated chest colds. Convince yourself. TONIGHT before you go to bed, rub your chest and throat with Penetro; then apply hot cloth. FEEL the relief it brings. Penetro and Penetro Nose Drops are sold by drug stores everywhere.

STRICKLAND HONORED AT FIFTY CLUB FROLIC

glass eyes of bankers with glass eyes may one detect a gleam of human sympathy."

From Brighton avenue the gridiron burlesque proceeded to the Piedmont Driving Club.

There a miniature car and the re-organized disorganized band made an entry. Mr. Strickland was forced into the tiny machine.

"Rendered—To Tear Apart."

The band rendered "Off in the Still Night."

A great throng of the city's great were on hand. They were, of course, not on their hands. That is merely a figure of speech. They were present.

Bankers, lawyers, financiers, retired businessmen, the mayor, citizens, newspapermen, and others were present to witness the gridiron performance.

A "supreme court," shrunk to just three of "the nine old men," administered the oath of office. It was, a wow.

Mr. Strickland had his fingers crossed.

The "three old men," who really had the greatest act of the gridiron burlesque, were Legare Davis, who was chief justice; Charles F. (Chuck) Palmer, and Flippen Burge.

Mr. Strickland made a brilliant reply. He came out for prosperity.

After the induction into office of the Tallapoosa boy who had made good in the city, The Constitution extra made its appearance.

The special extra, containing a complete report of the burlesque, was delivered by "I Got It," the famous newsboy who is known to thousands of Atlantans at his corner where he has sold Constitutions for years—North avenue and Peachtree. The special extra made a tremendous hit.

Major Clark Howell, of The Constitution, served with George Harrison, Howard McCall and Fonville Mc-

Whorter as military aides to Mr. Strickland.

The Navy Was There.

Jesse Draper represented the navy. The program was broadcast by Ernest Rogers. That is, some of those presented were afraid it had been. But it was of course, all a part of the burlesque. And excellently done.

After the program a buffet supper was served by the Fifty Club. Music and entertainment were provided.

It was all in fun and the fun was very cleverly written and executed.

And it was, despite its levity, a very sincere tribute to a fine fellow and a great citizen of Georgia who is recognized as one of the leading bankers in the south.

As for the Fifty Club, it had put on its finest program and had, for the first time, permitted at least a partially public view of its gridiron programs.

EDUCATION BOARD BALANCES BUDGET.

Mayor Receives Sheet; Pay Cuts for All Employees Included.

A balanced school budget was sent to Mayor Hartsfield for consideration yesterday by the city board of education which adopted the finance sheet at a special board meeting.

Mayor Hartsfield has the power of approval or disapproval of the budget.

T. W. Clift, school business manager, said the budget, balanced at $2,923,223, includes pay cuts ranging from 4 to 30 per cent for all school employees. It contains also $25,000 for automatic salary increases and increments effective September 1, and funds for purchase of 200 copies of Emily Woodward's "Empire" and Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind." The anticipated revenue is $30,000 more than last year, and the school department expects additional revenue from the state during 1937, it was said.

TROTSKY WILL ANSWER PLOT CHARGE BY PHONE

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(P)—Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian revolutionist, will answer charges brought against him at the recent Moscow conspiracy trials in a telephone address to a mass meeting here next Tuesday night.

The American committee for the defense of Leon Trotsky, which is sponsoring the meeting, said the voice of Trotsky will come from Mexico City by direct wire. The address will not be broadcast.

KNUDSEN, LEWIS MEET; FAIL TO REACH ACCORD

ferences left, returning shortly after the evacuation deadline passed. When they were joined by Martin and by John Thomas Smith, general counsel of General Motors. Both meetings were held in private chambers of Recorder's Judge George Murphy, brother of the Governor.

After the deadline passed, Sheriff Thomas Wolcott said, "I am prepared to evacuate the men if an order is given me by the court, but I am not going to ask for any such order."

Would Need Troops. If an order for ejection of the strikers came, he said, "it probably would be necessary for me to call upon the Governor for assistance." Fisher No. 2 plant is within the military blockade established by national guardsmen; No. 1 plant is outside the lines.

Judge Gadola had said that the next move was up to General Motors. Corporation representatives, he explained, must present proof in court that the injunction suit defendants had failed to comply with the order. Should a writ of attachment be issued, the sheriff would be given the task of bringing the strikers to court to face contempt charges.

Adolph Germer, organizer for C. I. O., after a conference with Wolcott announced he had a definite promise from the sheriff that there would be no attempt at forcible evacuation of "sit down" strikers in the Fisher Body plants here "today or tonight."

Sources close to General Motors executives, which declined to be quoted, indicated today that the corporation did not agree with Judge Gadola's interpretation of the procedure necessary to bring about eviction. The corporation view was represented as being that once the sheriff reported the premises still occupied by the strikers it was the judge's duty to direct their evacuation.

Some 250 members of the union's "emergency brigade" of women, said to represent Flint, Detroit, Lansing and Mount Morris, Mich., and Toledo, Ohio, paraded through downtown Flint today, although Mrs. May Crang, parade chairman, said police "would not let us carry our clubs—not even a rolling pin."

The women appeared later for a demonstration at Fisher No. 1 plant carrying the clubs they used during an outbreak Monday to smash windows in a Chevrolet plant as an accompaniment to a fight inside the building which injured a dozen persons.

Face $15,000,000 Penalty. By remaining in the Fisher plants, the striking workers, and officers of their union named in the injunction order, faced possible imposition of a $15,000,000 penalty "to be levied upon their lands, goods and chattels."

The penalty amount was determined by the corporation's computation of its losses because of the strike and the valuation of the occupied property. By obtaining an order from the court, General Motors could levy on funds of the U. A. W. A. or assets of any person violating the injunction, a court clerk explained.

Operations in the huge Chevrolet plant, where union members engaged in a new sit-down hold the "key" motor assembly plant, have been halted since Monday's disorder. Several General Motors units in Indiana and Michigan have resumed work on a part-time scale, building up inventories for the time when assembly lines may begin operating again.

Brief Flare-up.

A brief flare-up during a picket demonstration at the Guide Lamp plant at Anderson, Ind., the only strike-closed General Motors unit to reopen, ended today after Captain Patrick Davis, Anderson policeman, was removed from duty at the scene. Reports at Anderson police headquarters said the officer struck Victor Reuther, of Detroit, union organizer, during a dispute over use of a sound truck.

At Washington, Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, dispatched Investigator John Porter to Anderson to use his "good offices" in maintaining peace.

Probers Ask $50,000.

The senate labor committee recommended an additional $50,000 appropriation for the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee's investigation of strike-breaking and labor espionage, including an inquiry into the General Motors strikes. On recommendation of Secretary Perkins, the house labor committee voted an adverse report on a resolution which would have required her to furnish all information available on current automotive strikes.

State legislatures also took notice of the strike situation. At Lansing, Mich., Republican Representative Neil Wheeler, of Shelby, submitted as a proposed amendment to the criminal code a bill providing that any person inciting a strike would be guilty of a felony. A state senate committee in Alabama reported favorably on a bill to outlaw sit-down strikes.

REVENUE RAISING PLAN FOR CITY TO BE READY IN WEEK, SAYS MAYOR

Program Being Rapidly Put in Shape for Submission to Legislature.

Legislative program to raise necessary funds for the city of Atlanta will be whipped into shape for presentation to the general assembly by early next week, Mayor Hartsfield announced yesterday as he prepared to lay aside other business in favor of the important revenue raising measures, which will be designed to reduce the city's deficit and provide money for required equipment.

Though the mayor would not comment on the means of raising the needed $1,250,000 additional annual revenue, it was known city officials and Fulton legislators plan to center their attention on four of eight possible methods of getting added cash.

Prospects for annexation of Buckhead, Druid Hills, the Chevrolet and King Plow Company plants, as well as enacting an occupational tax on nonresident city workers, appeared so small, as plans for conferences among officials and legislators were being made, that it was conceded these proposals will not be seriously considered in the program.

Favored Methods.
Reports were that attention would be centered on increase in the city ad valorem tax, revision of water rates (the two proposals capable of raising the largest amount of additional revenue), increase in the limitation on business licenses and revision of the sanitary fees to cover cost of operating the sanitary department.

Hartsfield said yesterday he will not make any more engagements for the remainder of the week and, except for the council meeting on the relief problem and other emergencies, will devote his entire time to formulating with the Fulton delegation a program which can be submitted to the general assembly within a short time.

A number of conferences will be held between the municipal legislative committee, composed of Hartsfield, City Comptroller B. Graham West and Finance Chairman Ed A. Gilliam, and the Fulton delegation.

It was said yesterday the majority of the county delegation favors increase in the ad valorem tax and revision of water rates as the methods of obtaining the principal amount of the needed funds.

Water Rate Plan.
Water rate revision probably will not increase the rates but will decrease the amount of water for the minimum charge of $1.25 from 800 cubic feet to 500 cubic feet. This change will not affect the greater number of small home users, it was said. The present discount of 20 per cent for cash will probably be reduced to 10 per cent.

Officials yesterday pointed out that the water department does not clear a profit annually, since no charge for depreciation or replacement of worn out and broken machinery is carried in the water department books.

Likelihood that the legislature will be asked to create a city criminal court so that fines will accrue to the city also appeared small, officials said.

However, efforts to get the county and state to share the burden of relief and hospitalization will be continued.

INSTITUTE TO HEAR
CRUSADING MAYOR

Murray Seasongood of Cincinnati Slated for Talks at Emory.

Mayor Hartsfield will preside at the Tuesday night session of the Institute of Citizenship at Emory University when Murray Seasongood, famous reform mayor of Cincinnati, speaks on "Responsible City Government."

"Local Government" is the general theme of the tenth anniversary session of the institute. The former Cincinnati mayor will address the institute also at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, February 10, speaking on "The Outlook for Local Government."

Two round-table discussions on municipal government have been scheduled, with Zack Arnold, secretary of the Georgia Municipal Association, as chairman. The meetings will be held at 11 o'clock on Monday and Tuesday mornings, February 8 and 9, in the Theology chapel.

The Monday morning address, "The Problem of the Supreme Court," will be delivered by Dr. Edward S. Corwin, of Princeton University.

"Farm Tenancy in the South" will be the subject for a series of round-table discussions during the week under the leadership of Dr. R. Vance, research expert of the University of North Carolina, and Dr. Edwin R. Embree, president of the Rosenwald Fund.

TALKS ON POULTRY

Lecture Series Planned by Association Here.

Problems of poultry raisers will be discussed during a series of lectures sponsored by the Greater Atlanta Poultry Breeders' Association, beginning with the next regular monthly meeting which will be held at 8 o'clock Friday night, February 26, in the Chamber of Commerce building.

These lectures will be given by expert poultrymen and professors of animal husbandry on the subjects of poultry breeding, housing, mating, brooding, hatching, diseases and culling. The lectures will be public.

At the January meeting of the association, held last Friday night, the following officers for the year were installed: Dr. Charles H. Murphy, president; Thomas B. Clarkson, vice president and treasurer; Directors of the association include W. Kenneth Stringer, J. M. Hov, Ralph Morgan and Thomas H. Pittman, of Clarkston.

HOMES FOR FARM TENANTS

The bill introduced in the house by Representative Carl Vinson, dean of the Georgia congressional delegation, provides for a reasonable and sound method by which the federal government may aid worthy farm tenants and croppers to become owners of family-sized farms, and, under guidance and direction of experts in farming activities and the marketing of resulting products, be able to "pay out" within a reasonable length of time.

The measure, which is designed as a sound advance toward a solution of the farm tenancy and cropper problem, authorizes an appropriation of $50,000,000 for the first fiscal year and the same amount for each year thereafter for ten years. The act would be administered by the secretary of agriculture, who, through his assistants and experts, would purchase tracts of land and cut them up into family-sized farms, equipped with necessary buildings and farming appurtenances. Then carefully selected families would become the beneficiaries of this aid to independence.

Emphasizing the "far-reaching problems still with us for which democracy must find solutions," President Roosevelt has cited as an example "the prevalence of an un-American type of tenant farming," adding:

"I do not suggest that every farm family has the capacity to earn a living on its own farm. But many thousands of tenant farmers—indeed most of them—with some financial assistance and with some advice and training, can be made self-supporting on land which can eventually belong to them. The nation would be wise to permit them to go along as they do now, year after year, with neither future security as tenants, nor hope of ownership of their homes nor expectation of bettering the lot of their children."

"Farm tenancy has long been one of our major problems," Representative Vinson declared. Continuing, he says:

"The need of an act of this kind is obvious to anyone familiar with the facts. More than 42 per cent of all the farmers of this country are tenants of some kind or another. Every agricultural section has some tenancy. It ranges from around 8 per cent in the New England states to more than 45 per cent in parts of the corn belt and a high of nearly 72 per cent in some parts of the cotton belt. In the state of Georgia, for example, latest available figures show that of the 233,508 farms in the state 174,390, or 68.2 per cent, are operated by tenants or sharecroppers. A total of 1,418,514 people live on all the farms in Georgia and of this number 967,804 of them are tenants or sharecroppers. These people tend more than 61 per cent of all the crop land in the state, and yet the annual per capita farm value of crops for tenants and sharecroppers for the state of Georgia in a fairly good year like 1929 was only $148.89. The object of my bill is to change the status of present farm operators from tenants and sharecroppers to landowners."

Recognizing the indisputable fact that agriculture is the basic industry of this state, from which wealth must flow, we are confronted with the startling fact that 68.2 per cent of the farm families of the state produce less than $150 per year to contribute to that wealth.

less, helpless, nomadic-like people who wander from farm to farm, hoping for, yet never finding, any improvement in their economic condition.

SAVANNAH CHANGES MAYORS

A few days ago Mayor Gamble, of Savannah, turned over his office to Captain Robert M. Hitch. Not often are cities so fortunate in having an excellent official give way to a successor whose gifts and character are no less reassuring.

Mr. Gamble arrived in Savannah before the turn of the century as a wide-awake newspaperman. He became secretary to Mayor Herman Myers, thus laying the foundation for his career as municipal expert. When he entered private business, he pursued his literary and historical interests. He is probably the best living authority on Savannah's past.

During his administration, Armstrong College was established. He was mainly responsible for this advance, just as a long time ago he pressed for the erection of a public library. When a man has to his credit these cultural developments and the distinction of having steered a municipality safely through the shoals of a depression, he deserves the deepest respect of his community.

Captain Hitch is now holding his first public office. One of Georgia's leading lawyers, he is notable as a man who sees life broadly and as a whole, instead of being merely the legalist. Warm sympathies and a mellow philosophy are combined in him with an eager intelligence. It is to be regretted that he has waited to this late hour to use his high talent and rich personality in the public service.

So the winning play is Gamble to Hitch. Savannah is most fortunate, we repeat, to have one mayor who was dedicated to its enduring good followed by another moving upon the same level of integrity, understanding and fitness.

KIRKLAND'S FINE SERVICE

Announcement of the resignation of Chancellor James H. Kirkland, of Vanderbilt University, will be received with mixed feelings—regret that this sturdy scholar finds it necessary to retire from active service, and appreciation of what he has done during a regime of 40-odd years for the cause of higher education in the south.

It has been said of the University of Virginia that it is the lengthened shadow of Thomas Jefferson. It can be said of Vanderbilt University that its substance has been Chancellor Kirkland, who took over in 1893 and so is largely responsible for its significance in the life of the country.

A South Carolinian and a Wofford College graduate, Chancellor Kirkland belongs to the generation of students which sought and found ultimate satisfaction in obtaining a doctorate from a German university. Thus armed, he became professor of Latin at the age of 22 at Vanderbilt unaware of the greatness it was to achieve. For it was not until he became chancellor 12 years afterward that there began that process of growth and enrichment which has led to Vanderbilt's present stature.

It is a magnificent university, with one of the outstanding medical schools of the country, with a distinguished graduate department, with the best scholastic standards, with an English faculty that is the envy of other institutions. All this has not been attained without a struggle.

The bitterness aroused by dispute concerning the control of the university has not vanished. But no test of conflict, no emerging problem has ever found Dr. Kirkland less than capable of meeting the issue. During the depression, when private universities were feeling the thrust of adversity, Vanderbilt rode through the storm with flying colors.

It was a classical scholar who proved to be so fine an administrator. Incidentally, President Denny, who transformed the University of Alabama, was also a teacher of Latin and Greek. Thus we have illustrated the argument recently made by President Hutchins, of the University of Chicago, for renewed interest in the classics as a discipline for the demands of modern civilization.

Among those who are being mentioned to fill Dr. Kirkland's shoes are President Tigert, of the University of Florida, a Vanderbilt alumnus who has given an excellent account of himself, and Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael, an Oxford scholar hailing from Alabama, who is now vice chancellor in charge of graduate work at Vanderbilt. Both are men of conspicuous ability.

It is not hazardous much to suggest that Chancellor Kirkland will have something to do with the selection of his successor.

The old-type saloon was different. It was called a saloon, and while it had loungers, there was no lounge.

World's Window

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

End of Versailles.

Herr Hitler tore up the nonexistent Treaty of Versailles a few days ago in a superlatively speech. Disparagingly he said that the members of the reichstag roared themselves hoarse in shouting "Heil" and "Sieg-Heil." But it was a safe gesture, and in reality, the chancellor was only fighting a straw man. Or did anyone expect that France and England and the other victorious signatories of the treaty would have mobilized their armies and marched to the German borders?

Herr Hitler has for long been doing as he likes without the slightest interference. But now he has reached the limit. He will not let Germany be a colony back by taking them. To keep him from breaking the peace and to preserve him from an inner economic disaster, colonies will be handed back before the year is over.

Spanish Struggle

Nears End.

No new reinforcements have been going into Spain from France and Italy and Germany. The Spanish struggle has been going on for a couple of weeks now. The two Fascist states seem to have agreed to M. Leon Blum's proposal to isolate Spain completely and a coalition has been formed in the whole peninsula by the fleets of Britain, France, Germany and Italy to keep supplies out for either side. One of the difficulties remaining and not the least one, is the proposal to remove foreign volunteers from the fighting lines. On this point the whole scheme may break down yet, for France has gone tens of thousands of individual volunteers, anti-Fascist refugees for the most part, who hail from many countries.

Only the Valencia government could remove these persons. Even so, deprived of foreign aid the struggle will not last long. Compromise on a Liberal-Democratic Republican basis is in the air.

Realistic View

Of Arabs.

In his book, "A Journey to Jerusalem," the famous critic and playwright, St. John Galsworthy, spent a year in New York as guest-conductor of the theatrical company for the World, far from romanticizing on the "Sons of the Desert" voices his opinion on the Palestine problem in the following words: "When I hear an Englishman sentimentalizing about the noble Arab, and remember the dirty, inefficient and greedy bakhshish hunting I saw wherever I went, I feel rage rising within me."

These people will praise the Arab and belittle the Jew merely, so far as I can discover, because the Jew is industrious, enterprising and alert and unwilling to be patronized like a pet dog, whereas the Arab flatters the European's sense of his own superiority by playing the part of the helpless nodule, the simple child of the desert, the melting-eyed infant who will allow the big, strong Englishman to take care of him. . . . When I replied to the idolaters of the Arabs and to the changing pets of the following words: "When I hear an Englishman sentimentalizing about the noble Arab, and remember the dirty, inefficient and greedy bakhshish hunting I saw wherever I went, I feel rage rising within me."

"The poor devils have been ground down for generations. They have no voice, but the Jews have suffered the extremes of persecution. . . . yet they have maintained their spirit and their fortitude, and Israel's land, under their cultivation, blossoms like a rose in the present, like a rose."

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

Fermentation and putrefaction are natural, normal, and desirable. You have to ignore physiology or shut your ears to the teachings of physiologists before you can develop "auto-intoxication." "Auto-intoxication," or, as some of the modern charlatans call it, "auto-toxicosis," is an imaginary poisoning by substances formed as by-products of fermentation or putrefaction in the intestine. It is bad for the health, but you get such an obsession. Indeed, many a poor gink worries himself sick over it. And many another builds himself a baffling assortment of real symptoms by constantly dosing or "mouthing" with diet or experimenting with bowel washes and the like.

Although many old-time physicians accepted the hypothetical "auto-intoxication," the explanation for all sorts of vague complaints they did not understand, no physician or scientific authority has ever evidenced to prove that such poisoning occurs in an individual who eats and drinks about. Some old fogies still in practice, and plenty of quacks and nostrum mongers, exploit the idea today. As long as this morbid concept is taken seriously, it will continue to cause the number of untoward victims, the physical habit will prevail. Were it not for the haunting fear of dire effects from such "poisoning" any view of the constitution of the human body, I should think might readily be the habit and free himself for life by simply ceasing to interfere with nature's control of digestion.

Another obsession of the layman's notions about this, and no wonder, for how could he have any other ideas in view of what he has always been taught? But I know, too, how uniformly successful victims of the habit are in gaining their freedom to the customary pill or other artificial for five days in succession. It takes a good deal of cajoling and persuasion—that's why I got out the booklet, "The Constipation Habit," which sets you back a dime and a stamped envelope bearing your address, but then, what do you pay per month for physic?

Here if I wanted to rub it in I might recite a list of side-effects from everyday laxatives, effects which of themselves are as chronic ailments of one kind or another, but this is still a health column and we've gone as far in that direction as is seemly. It is astonishing how unconcernedly many laymen dose themselves with drugs which may have harmful effects. A mother today says: "When either of my children, aged 3 and 6 years, contract a cold, I immediately dose them with—," and she names a nostrum which benumbs sensation, kills pain, but has no remedial value so far as we know, and certainly produces strange results in not a few instances—edema of lips, eyelids, nose, face, swelling of tongue, hives, nausea, syncope. Surely no physician would advise dosing children with such stuff in any circumstances.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Can a man who had mumps complicated with orchitis at the age of 25 years become the father of children? (G. A. E.)
Answer—Yes. Rarely does such complication involve both glands.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON.

WINDMILLS? WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Strange things are being said in congress. Debaters seem to be taunting each other with the thought of windmills. Little outside attention has been aroused, even when Rooseveltian Chairman Ashurst, of the senate judiciary committee, speared an unidentified tyrant the other day. Spoke he:

"In all tyrannical governments, no monarch, no tyrant, makes any progress whatever unless and until he seizes in his hands the legislative, executive and the judicial powers. . . . The first thing a wise, prudent, scheming, subtle monarch in Europe does, if he wants complete control, is to seize legislative, executive and judicial powers."

This usually mild administration devotee then spoke at length against the control of the judiciary by old British kings, and some of his Democratic colleagues cautiously chimed approval, although there was no bill pending to establish a king or a British system, and no one had raised the question.

The same day, in the house, the Democrat Pettigill spoke more guardedly of tyranny and "the pseudo-liberalism of King George." Said he: "A movement toward concentration of power at a single point or in a few hands may or may not be justified by the march of economics, but it cannot be described as a liberal movement." He likewise neglected to identify the "single point."

WARNING Then Senator Borah took the air with a profound speech about those who "connive at the courts through strained doubtful construction (legislation)," flitting from the people power which the people have not granted." He quoted George Washington's words: "Let there be no usurpation," and urged that "before the final pillage takes place" the people be consulted through forthright constitutional amendments.

Mr. Borah likewise neglected to identify any connivers, pillagers or usurpers, but he also hit mysteriously at despotic British kings. In fact, half his address was the story of the British struggle to maintain freedom of the courts so that the people may defend themselves against politicians.

As Borah is a Republican, and as Mr. Roosevelt announced three weeks ago he did not like constitutional amendments, the target of the definite impression he was attacking something Mr. Roosevelt was going to propose, but he did not say what.

ANGLOPHOBIA All this sudden interest in British methods and tyrants can hardly be quixotic. Aroused legislators seem to fear they will be faced with some unannounced something, and apparently the root of their fears is this:

Certain Democratic congressional leaders, with extraordinarily good avenues to White House viewpoint, have been conveying the impression about the British constitutional way of doing things. The British system is substantially this: Never amend just change; never repeal a constitutional provision, just adopt a new law.

This inside interpretation of the President's possible purposes has naturally frightened most of his congressional friends. They have noted that many of the innovations already enacted have been modeled on British acts: Social security, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Twiggell satellite cities, the coming Wagner housing bill, the dollar devaluation, the stabilization fund, and others.

They know the British have no constitution, or at least no written one; that parliament makes it up as it goes along. They are afraid that Mr. Roosevelt, who now dominates the legislative branch of government, may begin making up his constitution as he goes along.

TREND This is all right with most of them, as far as Mr. Roosevelt and wages and hours legislation are concerned, but they are afraid to scrap our system of judicial checks on government forever. They want Mr. Roosevelt to get whatever definite power he needs from the people through a constitutional amendment submitted to them for ratification. This will save the judiciary and the American system.

The way things are going now, they will probably be successful. In fact, their fears may be unnecessary. Mr. Roosevelt seems to be just analyzing different methods. The uproar among his congressional friends against "change by indication" has only been partly disclosed. It is really nothing underneath. In the end, it may cause him to expose a constitutional amendment against his wishes, provided, of course, that the supreme court fails to disclose sufficiently large constitutional loopholes in the forthcoming Wagner and holding companies decisions.

CO-OPERATION It has nothing to do with the constitutional squabble, but Anglo-American co-operation is progressing satisfactorily, subversively. The new move to put the neutrality law on a "cash-and-carry" basis will satisfy British objections to signing a trade agreement. State Secretary Hull objected to that method originally, but he changed his mind as a result of his experiences at the Pan-American conference.

Ranking naval officials continue to deny it, but there are good reasons for believing a group of our naval experts will go over to consult the British this summer.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

You whispered

Of hope,

I heard what you said:

You shouted

Of love,

Affrighted, I fled.

The Fitness

Of Circumstance.

Boy Friend Number 1 is in Louisville.

She hadn't heard from him in five days.

Finally, a letter came, air mail, special delivery.

She opened it in the early morning, before she had left her bed.

Did she immediately tear it open, impatient to read?

She did not!

She washed her face and combed her hair.

She powdered her face and re-touched her lips.

She donned her most elaborate kimono and the red satin mules.

She settled herself, comfortably, in a chair.

She opened, and only then, she carefully slit the envelope and read the important message.

Lenten

Customs.

Did you know that, the world over, the principal foods eaten during the season of Lent are salmon and cheese?

These two articles of diet have been associated together ever since the earliest observance of Lent.

It is said that, in 1624, during Lent, the aldermen of the village of Bourges made public an edict forbidding the use of cheese. Their purpose was to restrict interstate commerce in the dairy food. The people were so enraged that the edict was revoked after a very short time.

Although salmon is used so universally as a fast day menu all over the Christian world, the early American Indians thought of it as a food for fast days, especially their springtime rites.

And did you know that forty-day fasts are by no means exclusive to the Christian religion? Such fasts, for the same period of time, were almost the rule among ancient, pre-Christian nations.

The Aztecs had an annual forty-day fast in honor of their legendary hero Quetzalcoatl, who is said to have been tempted and to have fasted for forty days upon a mountain top.

And in ancient Greece, one of the famous athletes of the period is said to have lived for twenty years on a diet consisting solely of bread, cheese and figs.

A Story

From Hollywood.

Burton Smith, Atlanta who ended a visit home, this week, to return to his job with one of the Hollywood studios, told me this one.

Seems a certain well-known male star had attended a party where he had indulged rather freely in alcoholic beverages. He started home, alone, in his car, in the early hours of the morning and, not surprisingly, lost his way. Could not even find his way home.

About three o'clock in the morning, deciding he was hopelessly lost, feeling sleepy, he drove off the parking and parked his car beside the highway. Being in facetious mood, he scribbled a note and attached it to the door of his car before settling down for slumber on the front seat.

The note read something like this:

"Call me at 9 o'clock, with breakfast including grapefruit juice, fried scrambled eggs, toast and coffee."

Then he slept.

Promptly at nine there was a knock on the car door and, opening his eyes, he saw a waiter standing with a tray bearing grapefruit juice, dry scrambled eggs, toast and coffee.

He was parked in front of a roadside restaurant.

How About This,

Traffic Officers.

A gentleman came to the office yesterday to complain about traffic conditions at the intersection of Whitehall and Fair streets.

He claimed this is one of the worst spots in Atlanta. Automobiles are constantly speeding by there at dangerous speeds," he said. Added that twice, within the past week, he had been compelled to jump for safety and declared he had reached an age when agility was lessening. Feared some driver would get him, soon, unless something was done. Said there should be a stop sign or a warning or something at the point.

Personally, I don't know anything about conditions at this intersection. The complaint may be right, or may be wrong. I'm simply reporting what he said, standing beside the city editor's desk, yesterday morning.

Twenty-Five

Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Sunday, February 4, 1912:

"Cascade Springs, 5 miles west of Atlanta, by the middle of the coming summer will have been converted into a fine road house and park for automobile tourists at an expenditure of $100,000."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Friday, February 4, 1887:

"Miss Boston (sweetly)—I understand, Miss Chicago, that the belles of your city find large boys the most preposterous."

"Miss Chicago (still sweeter)—Yes, but we don't have to use mudgums on our garters."

PEARLS OF WISDOM.

"Authority," says the Talmud, "buries those who assume it."

"Love work, hate lordship and seek no intimacy with the ruling power."

"If you have entered a city, conform to its laws."

In a place where there are no men strive to be the man."

One of the most widely quoted passages of the Talmud is the following by the great Rabbi Hillel which expresses the attitude one should adopt toward the community in which he lives:

"If I am not for myself, who will be for me? And being for myself alone, what am I?"

A man's mind should always be harmoniously attuned to that of his fellow creatures."

Due to the extensive interest in Talmudic tales, 125 of the legends and over 500 Pearls of Wisdom have been collected in an attractive book of 195 pages, handsomely bound in grained blue velvet cloth, with gold-stamped title and author's name. Price, $1.50 postpaid. Address orders to "Talmudic Tales," care The Atlanta Constitution.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Refugees Don't Pity Themselves

Ind. Feb. 3.—This certainly is no attempt to debunk a disaster or to deal flippantly with the tragedy of the great flood. There is a large discrepancy between the demeanor of the people in the flood country and the emotional mind's-eye portrait of them formed by the rest of the nation.

Those of their fellow Americans elsewhere who sympathize with them they are innocent of self-pity and when the water goes down they will follow it back inch by inch to save what they can from the wreckage, which will be very little, and start all over. It was the same in the little settlements of Bellemead and Lockhaven on Lake Okechobee, Fla., after the terrible blow which scooped the water out of the largest fresh water lake in the country except Michigan, blew it into the dikes and killed about 2,000 pioneers of the last American frontier by drowning or snake bite.

When the water ran off, the survivors went back to their families. There has been more excitement in New York than in Tell City, Ind., which is mostly under water.

A few nights ago in Evansville as the Ohio crept up the last remaining slight rise of ground there was a little disgust because some radio announcer apparently reading from a script prepared by an old school newspaper man, remarked in ominous tones that grim-faced men with muskets were patrolling the streets. The grim-faced men were highly civilized militia boys, many of them high school students, and their relations with the citizens were entirely neighborly.

County

In fact although many poor people had been wiped out and the local aristocracy had lost heavily in household stuff and motor equipment, there was nevertheless a sort of county fair spirit abroad, comparable to the excitement in the capital of a country which has just been reprieved but hasn't yet been shelled or bombed.

Since then I have been in Newburgh, Rockport, Tell City and Alton, Ind., and in Owensboro and Cloverport, the Kentucky cities on the river. The manner of the people makes it almost possible to understand the reports of censorship in Louisville where the mayor seems to resent as dramatic the descriptions of the flood sent out of his town.

The loss of life has been comparatively small to date, considering the large population of the flood region, and the danger of disease was cried up so loud and so early and met so vigorously that in all probability there will be very little sickness. So aside from the mortality which is inevitable but might have been much worse, there is nothing the matter that money will not cure.

There were no drownings in any of the points which I touched in three days on the coast guard picket boat 2318, and of the ten patients in the little hospital at Tell City most were brought down with one or more heart failure. The money to cure the damage will come straight from Washington because a large proportion of the victims are included in that one Lord of the American people whom Mr. Roosevelt in his inaugural address described as ill-fitted ill-housed and ill-clothed. He was planning to get around to them pretty soon anyway.

Indifferent

If the people have such a thing as the coast guard I would say that it ranges between indifference and contempt. Certainly they do not regard them as deliverers and they are just the least bit impatient of the restrictions imposed by martial law.

A gang of civilians were unloading with sacks a large of soft coal and hastily dumping it on the levee in order to release the barge and towboat as soon as possible. One of the civilians fell out of line to light a cigarette and scratch his back and the sentry who was unarmed yelled at him to snap back into it. The loafer obeyed but glared at the soldier for he had been publicly humiliated and had to take it but the soldier said, "I've got my duty and you've got your duty and there was no more conversation about that."

The coast guards shifted in with their boats from the Great Lakes and the Atlantic coast between Maine and Virginia hold themselves apart from the population and go through their assignments without ostentation. But they can hardly do justice to the force has been sent up-river from the crest into a country where the refugees were brought out long ago.

Handicapped

By Boats

coast guards are handicapped by the type of their boats which are small patrols with little space for supplies or refugees and draw more water than scows. The boats are useful but not adapted for rescue work in the river are flat boats which can go into shallow water and carry out a hundred while a picket takes a long time to get into the river and know how and when the emergency can any boat that was a boat probably seemed appropriate in Washington.

Will now be heard some of the most fantastic foolishness that of the world has ever known on the subject of flood control but no spread of forests or grass.

A sheet of toast will absorb only so much hot milk or pollock and this was just one hell of a lot of water which would have run down the river even in the days of the Indians.

There is now some talk of building basins to catch the floods and drain them off concretely for the next time the like of this. That is all right but they will have to be ocean basins.

It Is the Nature of a Dog To Chase Anything That Runs

By ROBERT QUILEN

In one of the February magazines, a story of unusual merit unwittingly teaches a lesson which is sorely needed by the victims of vicious publicity.

A young woman whose heart is pure is caught in the web of circumstance and treachery and made to appear all that she is not. The social world promptly turns against her and she faces certain ruin. But in the fine high pride of a clean conscience she refuses to make excuses or explanations, and in the end is saved by the faith and loyalty of a great lady who doesn't fear public opinion because she makes it.

CAMPAIGN FOR AWARD LAUNCHED BY BARTOW; ENTHUSIASM IS HIGH

County Officials and Civic Leaders Map Program; Mass Meeting Slated.

By RALPH T. JONES.
CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Feb. 3.—Bartow county enthusiastically launched its participation in The Constitution Progressive Government Awards today at a meeting attended by representatives of the leading organizations of the county and of the city of Cartersville, and by county and city officials and others.

A committee to draw up a tentative program which, it is believed, will place this county in the forefront of those considered for the first award of $3,500, was named and called to meet at 2 o'clock next Tuesday at which time the program will be arranged definitely. It is planned to hold a mass meeting of citizens from all sections of the county at a later date, at which time the program suggested by the committee will be presented and all interested citizens will be asked for suggestions and for full cooperation.

It is the determination of the county leaders to leave no effort unspent which will assure this county of being winner of the first award or a formidable contender for that honor.

Headed Named Chairman.
J. K. Headen, superintendent of Bartow county schools, was named chairman of the committee, which includes representatives of the Rotary and Lions clubs, the Euharlee Farmers' Club, the city of Cartersville and the county itself.

The meeting today was called jointly by the three clubs, a special committee from each attending. Present also, in addition to Superintendent Headen, were A. V. Neal, commissioner of Bartow county; T. W. Tinsley, mayor of Cartersville; Henry Nelson, Bartow's tax collector; W. C. Walton, city clerk; Milton Fleetwood, publisher of the Cartersville Tribune-News; and W. R. Frier Jr., publisher of the Bartow Herald.

Representing the Euharlee Farmers' Club were Superintendent Headen, J. H. Gilbreath and Alton Mahan. The committee from the Rotary Club include J. M. Neal, Hugh Pettit, H. J. McCormick and Mr. Fleetwood. While the Lions Club was represented by Mayor Tinsley, Mr. Frier and Mr. Walton.

Several important projects were suggested during today's meeting, all of which, it was believed, would prove of great benefit to the citizens of the county as a whole. It is probable that the program is finally adopted when the program is finally adopted.

The Constitution is offering a total

Mummy 'X-Rayed' In Probe of Death

CLEVELAND, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A post-mortem—3,500 years post, in fact—disclosed today that Othpith, a young priest of Karnak, died with a fractured leg.

Dr. Bernard F. Nichols, specialist from the Cleveland clinic, who examined the mummy, said X-rays disclosed two breaks in the right leg below the knee. "Since we found no evidence of efforts to treat the fractures," he said, "we concluded he had met with an accident which might have been the cause of his death. We found no evidence of disease. He was a young man of about 19 years and apparently healthy."

Dr. Wallace H. Cathcart, curator, said the young priest served the god Ammon or Mont or the goddess Mut—he wasn't sure which—about 1,600 years before Christ.

Of $7,500 in cash awards to be given to those counties in Georgia which demonstrate the most progress toward better local government and which achieve improvements that shall prove of greatest benefit to the largest number of citizens during 1937.

The county, ranked by the judges at the end of the year as showing the greatest advance will be awarded first place, which carries with it $3,500. This money may be used in any way the local authorities see fit, for the benefit of all the people.

Second prize consists of $1,000 and third of $500.

In addition to these three, which are to be given on a basis of statewide competition, 10 awards of $250 each will be made, one going to that county in each of the 10 congressional districts of the state which has achieved the greatest governmental advance during the year. None of the three counties winning the statewide awards will be eligible in the district contests.

Bartow Enthusiasm High.
With the intense enthusiasm evidenced today, both by public officials and by the groups representing the three clubs, it is believed Bartow county enters the awards program with the advantage of unlimited enthusiasm on the part of all her citizens.

The Rotary and Lions Clubs are primarily Cartersville organizations, representing the city's best and most vigorous leadership in the city.

The Euharlee Farmers Club, an organization which has met once a month without a break, for 54 years, is representative of the urban and rural interests, it is believed Bartow will prove, at least, one of the most formidable contenders among all the 150 counties of the state.

More than 60 Georgia counties have now launched organized, planned programs in the awards project and generally, during the year, its cooperative movements along similar lines in other counties.

It is not necessary, however, for any of the 150 counties of Georgia to make any formal application as candidate for the awards. Any county which takes a progressive step forward for the benefit of its citizens generally, during the year, is automatically a candidate for ranking when the final awards adjudication is made.

bureau, marked the case solved and disclosed in Washington that perhaps the most damning evidence against Kenyon was a tablet of writing paper which had identifications brought out by scientifically trained investigators and showed to duplicate words in two ransom notes sent to Dr. Davis' family. However said his agents were convinced Kenyon had no accomplices. "Why, why must he have been murdered?" asked a sister of Dr. Davis. "He was the kindest of men. He would go on any call that came to him, day or night, and he never considered whether he would be paid for it."

There still were gaps in the police story, particularly as to why Mr. Davis' kidnaper killed him—right about a few hours after he was kidnapped a week ago yesterday. But the official story, broadly, was one of kidnapping by an amateur criminal. He was the fourth victim to be slain in recent years by his abductor. Only last month Charles Mattson, 10, son of a Tacoma, Wash., physician, was found beaten to death.

In both the Mattson and Davis cases unsuccessful attempts were made to pay demanded ransoms. On the afternoon of January 23 Dr. Davis left his office telling his secretary he was going on an emergency case to the home of a "Mr. James" south of here. The doctor was considered well-to-do but not wealthy. He recently had received as trustee $7,000 in the funds of an estate.

include in his address to the legislature at 9 o'clock this morning a discussion of his desire for a state conservation department and a state-supported secondary road system.

The social security legislation for which he called in last week's visit to the assembly started on its way to full enactment yesterday when the house of representatives approved two key bills.

One would submit to the voters of Georgia a constitutional amendment permitting the state to levy taxes for a social security program, and the other would call a general election in June for a vote on the question.

Three Bills Up Today.
Three remaining social security bills—old-age pensions, aid to dependent children and assistance to the needy blind—were in line for action following Rivers' talk today.

The old-age pension bill came to the house floor yesterday, but the both adjourned before reaching the stage for a vote. The bill, together with its companion measures, was established as a "special and confining" order of business and will remain at the top of the calendar until disposed of.

A revenue-producing measure in the form of a "maintenance tax" on trucks, buses and trailers went into the house hopper. Political circles have forecast for some time the administration would ask such a tax on heavy vehicles to make them pay more than the $3 license tax fee.

Proposed by McCracken, of Jefferson.

Several bills are pending before the legislature, but the one for the payment he will discuss tomorrow, as well as one on a system of "United States post roads."

The conservation bill, backed by the administration, would combine the departments of forestry, geology and game and fish, and would abolish the game and fish commissioner's post now held by Zack Cravey. Rivers called directly upon him to "resign or be legislated out of office."

The post road idea is one of his campaign pledges and calls for the state to support, together with available federal funds, a system of secondary roads in all counties of Georgia.

ENGINE LEAP KILLS TWO.
NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Two men were killed and three others slightly injured when a gasoline engine jumped an overhead track and plunged 27 feet to the floor of the Robertson Chemical Corporation plant at Money Point today.

Bartow County Leaders Lay Plans To Win First Constitution Award

First Lady in Jail—Asks Movies There

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(UP)—Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt went to jail today for an "educational" and a "police" woman said she was a "marvelous pupil."

Returning to the National Training School for Girls, which she caustically assailed as "medieval" after a tour of inspection a few weeks ago, the first lady found the "well" changes had been made.

She recommended that education and an entertaining motion picture films be borrowed from the Navy, Western Interior Department, and the Interior Department. After a luncheon, Mrs. Roosevelt autographed a menu for the girl who waited on her, and offered to send autographs to all the rest of the prisoners.

son, and Musgrave, of Clinch, both administrators, the levy would be 50 cents per 100 pounds of weight for passenger buses, and would rise as high as $2,000 on those over six tons.

Scale for Trucks.
The tax on one-ton trucks would be $25, on one and one-half ton trucks, $35, with the graduated rate reaching $300 on trucks of capacity between five and six tons, and $2,000 on those over six tons.

Trailers weighing more than 600 pounds would be charged $50. A bill to incorporate the Georgia bar into a self-governing organization came back to the house with approval of the committee on the state of the republic. It is in position for final house consideration whenever called up.

The house accorded a privileged standing to a special $319,547.66 appropriation for the state hospital for the insane at Milledgeville, and then passed it 117 to 0. The sum would be for payment of past due salaries and supply accounts brought over from 1936.

Labor Relations Act.
A bill to "control" union practice and procedure of collective bargaining for labor came in a "labor relations act" proposed by Field, of Whitefield.

Senator Terrell, of Warrenton, asked the senate to make it mandatory for the Governor to call a special session of the legislature in event he suspended or removed the state treasurer or the four judges.

Governor Talmadge removed the officers last year, with the legislature not voting on his action until this year.

"Impossible" Situation.
In commenting on a civil service system for the state, Rivers said yesterday "the job business" had become "impossible," citing the fact that he receives some 700 or 800 applications a day, with numerous persons calling at his office. He declared he was being prevented from attending to other business of the state.

Ennis bill would set up a three-man board appointed by the Governor and receiving $3,000 each. A civil examiner would receive $3,000.

The bill would exempt all persons now in the civil service of the state from examination, but would require others, with specified exceptions, to undergo examinations in their counties of residence.

The commission would recommend the five highest scoring applicants under the Taylor "moral responsibility" test that he was a "very busy boy."

actor arrived this morning from his trip to Washington, D. C. where he attended the President's birthday ball. Studio officials were slightly dismayed at the news from Nebraska, but insisted Robert could not be held responsible.

"He is such a nice boy," they pointed out. It was hinted it might be a "family fight" and that the old folks in Nebraska were trying to shove something over on Robert.

Look at Checks.
Mrs. Brugh went back to look over her checkbook to see if it could not be shown Robert had sent more than $20 back to the old folks.

"I'm sure we sent more," she said. Subsequently Taylor returned from his ride and issued the following statement:

"Mother and I have always been glad to help grandfather in any way possible. We had not been advised that he owned the pistol found beside the body. Taylor found named him co-responsible in a divorce suit."

WIDOW DENIES GUILT IN SLAYING OF TRADER.
SNOW HILL, Md., Feb. 3.—Mrs. Jeannette Trader, in a jail statement, asserted today she was innocent of a charge she murdered her husband, Clarence J. Trader, Stockton utility owner.

"I am not guilty of shooting Clarence," she said, reiterating she loved her estranged mate. The Worcester county grand jury indicted her on a murder charge yesterday.

The widow's arrest came after Sam "Ab" Smith, of Pungentown, Va., had admitted a "lie detector" test that he owned the pistol found beside Trader's body. Trader had named him co-responsible in a divorce suit.

Passage of Social Security Bills Forecast Within Week by Leaders

Enactment of Governor Rivers' widespread program for social security within a week was forecast yesterday by administration leaders as the house took preliminary steps to initiate old-age pensions and began discussion of other measures while the senate prepared to handle today a bill abolishing the present state board of control and setting up a board of public welfare which will direct the security program.

It is the program of Rivers leaders to have the senate work on the bills now before the house immediately after their passage and the house do the same with the measures now before the senate.

"The entire program ought to be ready for the Governor's approval within a week," Speaker Roy W. Harris said.

Without dissenting vote, the house acted to set up a general election June 8, and then approved a constitutional amendment for submission at the time to give the state power to levy social security taxes.

The body began consideration of a bill outlining the actual system for paying old-age pensions, but adjourned before taking a vote.

First for Disposition.
This bill, together with others allowing aid to dependent children and assistance to the needy blind, remained as a first order of business for final disposition today.

The bills were designed in accordance with the views of some legal authorities that they will not require a constitutional amendment, but administration leaders took the stand passage of such a constitutional provision would make them "doubly sure" of a tenable social security program.

The general election measure, passed by vote of 114 to 0, would call a general election on the Tuesday after the second Monday of June this year and every two years thereafter.

Ennis voting on the calendar for today and a senate public welfare department reorganization act up today constitute the full administration social security program.

Retraction Banned.
Welch, of Cobb county, inserted a provision to keep the law from being retroactive, declaring such retroaction would make the statute unconstitutional.

The proposed amendment permitting levies for old-age pensions, payments to dependent children and the needy blind, and other welfare benefits. While bills were submitted originally calling for each tax separately, the committee incorporated them in a substitute bill. It passed, 167 to 0.

With Lawmakers In State Assembly

One of the most important public hearings of the present session of the general assembly will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the hall of the house of representatives when the ways and means committee of the lower branch of the assembly will take up the proposed chain store tax bill.

Representative Wilmer D. Lanier, of Richmond county, one of the sponsors of the measure, will speak for the bill while a score or more chain store executives are expected to speak in opposition to it.

At the same time the senate and house committees on conservation will meet in a joint session in the senate to take up the proposed co-ordination of the conservation units of the state. Governor Rivers will discuss this program in his message to the assembly today.

Senate Approves Planning Board.
The senate placed its okay, 38 to 0, yesterday on a bill by Dr. Chason, of DeKalb county, to set up a Georgia planning board in co-operation with the national resources committee.

Five members of the Georgia board will serve for only their expenses. The federal government, Dr. Chason said, would furnish experts and clerical personnel.

The board would have as its task the gathering of data and the working out of a program for the development of the state's resources.

Taxes in Ware County.
Senator Jack Williams, of Ware county, introduced a proposal yesterday for a constitutional amendment to permit Ware county to levy a mill and a half tax to promote the location of new industries there.

Williams said proceeds of the tax would probably be used for advertising purposes. The measure was submitted for a vote at the next general election.

Pardon Changes Sought.
Governor Rivers' suggestion last week that his pardoning powers be "curbed" brought a proposal yesterday from President Pro Tem Terrell, of the senate, for a special amendment to the constitution to change the vesting of the pardon power in the governor, and to give the governor, at his discretion, the power to pardon or to commute the sentence of any person convicted of a crime.

House Votes Fund for Insane.
The house of representatives yesterday approved, 177 to 0, a special appropriation of $319,547.66 for the state hospital for the insane at Milledgeville.

The house ordered the bill transmitted immediately to the senate. Representative Martin Ennis, of Baldwin county, coauthor of the bill with his colleague, Joe Moore, said the appropriation would pay past-due salaries and supply accounts of the institution.

In answer to questions from the floor Ennis said after the last general election "very few bills were paid" by the hospital.

He said further that the institution in 1936 "received only so much money as Governor Talmadge wanted to give."

Funds for 1936, he said, would amount to slightly more than $1,000,000 by addition of the sums provided in the special act approved today.

Loans for Richmond County.
The senate yesterday passed a bill, 17 to 0, authorizing the state to loan $100,000 to Richmond county for the purpose of building a new courthouse.

SECURITY FINANCE BILL IS APPROVED BY HOUSE

Plan Also To Provide Funds for Veterans and Other Agencies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The house stamped its approval today on the first regular appropriation bill of the session. It carries more than $1,000,000,000 to finance the Social Security Board, Veterans' Administration and other independent agencies for the next fiscal year.

Without a record vote, the house sent the $1,046,000,000 measure to the senate with a strong provision prohibiting the use of department funds to pay employees of congressional investigating committees.

As originally written, the prohibition would have applied to all congressional inquiries except those agreed to by both house and senate. However, when Representative Ellenbogen, Democrat, Pennsylvania, attempted to have it stricken out on a point of order, Chairman Woodrum, Democrat, Virginia, of the subcommittee handling the bill, immediately offered an amendment which extended the prohibition to all congressional investigations. Woodrum's amendment carried, 68 to 16.

The bill would authorize total expenditure of $61,000,000 in excess of those for comparable items last year.

introduced by the Richmond county delegation in the house, proposing a constitutional amendment to allow that county to make temporary loans. The senate vote on the measure, which had already passed the house, was 44 to 0.

Under the proposal, Richmond county could make loans between March 1 and December 1 not exceeding 50 per cent of the gross income from taxes and other sources the preceding year.

No new loans would be allowed until those of the previous year were paid in full.

The measure now goes to the Governor for his signature.

If enacted into law, it would be voted upon by the entire state at the next general election.

AUGMENTED TRAVEL TO GERMANY IS SEEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Augmented travel to Germany next spring by tourists who are buying their German money now was predicted today by bankers and travel agents following a second sharp rise in travel and registered marks in the foreign exchange market.

Both currency units have gained nearly a cent in quotations within two days. Registered marks were quoted today at 19.90 cents an advance of 25 of a cent over last night's closing rate while travel marks, at 21.10 cents, were up .50 of a cent.

Travel agents said Adolf Hitler's Saturday speech to the German reichstag, which was accepted as conciliatory in tone, had allayed fears of war in Europe in the near future. As a result, advance bookings for transatlantic travel have increased considerably.

Tourists planning trips to Germany, they said, were buying marks now as the rate recently has been lower than normal.

Roaring Yellow Tide Spreads
Over Thousands of Acres Near Tiptonville.

TIPTONVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Mississippi floodwater from an ever-widening series of breaks in the Bessie Landing levee all but encircled Tiptonville tonight and spread constantly higher over adjacent thousands of acres.

The yellow tide roared deafeningly through the gaps to collide and foam into backwater from an unprotected stretch of river just below. For two miles above, nearly all the way, from Bessie to Cates Landing water lay on both sides of the levee.

The river stood a few inches from the top of the dike, its crown piled high with sandbags. The backwater was a good five feet lower and for a half mile or more above the break rasped the levee sides with a current even greater than that of the river.

To the east hundreds of flooded farm homes could be seen, their occupants long since fled to higher ground. Those living near the edges of the great yellow lake had gone or were about to go.

Further upstream the levee still

Hopkins Reassures.

The Cairo defenders, who, like many another such group in the flood zone, could not relax their vigilance, had personally delivered assurance from Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins that WPA men would "stand by until the end."

Hopkins has made available thousands of WPA workers for cleanups in the flood area—he has promised many thousands more.

Atlanta Social Ranks Acquire Duo of Popular Young Matrons

By Sally Forth.

ATLANTA society is indebted to Columbus for a pair of its most attractive recent acquisitions. Mrs. William I. Hudson Jr. and Mrs. Haddaway Rowleson. Mrs. Hudson, with Mr. Hudson and their three-year-old daughter, Frances, arrived January 4 for residence here, and Monday saw the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Rowleson.

Mrs. Hudson and Mrs. Rowleson are the closest of friends, and both are members of the Junior League. They have established residence in the same section of the city so that they may be near each other, the Hudsons residing at 96 Twenty-sixth street and the Rowlesons at 116 Huntington road.

Mrs. Hudson is the former Frances Cozart, daughter of Mrs. A. W. Cozart and the late Judge Cozart, of Columbus. She was one of the organizers of the Columbus Junior League and will be a most valuable and capable transfer, having served as second vice president and as chairman of both the arts and interests and of the welfare committees.

In addition to her Junior League work, Mrs. Hudson's principal interest is her music. She is a gifted violinist, having pursued her studies at Stonewall College and at Hollins College in Virginia. She finished her musical education under the noted Stravinsky at Mannes school in New York. Cultural circles will extend a cordial welcome to such a charming and talented newcomer.

Mrs. Rowleson was before her marriage Miss Alline Tuttle, popular Montgomery (Ala.) belle. She has recently completed her provision course in the Junior League, and like Mrs. Hudson, she will form an attractive and welcome addition to the young matron ranks of society.

ATLANTA will be represented in the gala throng attending the reception at the White House this evening by Mr. and Mrs. Herndon Drewry, who for the past few months have resided in Jacksonville, Fla., but on whom this city has not relinquished its claim. Mr. and Mrs. Drewry passed through the city yesterday en route to Washington.

Early last week they received the impressive invitation from the President and Mrs. Roosevelt requesting their presence at the reception which is given annually for the heads of various bureaus and undersecretaries, and is one of the brilliant events of the national capital's social season. The affair is the third of a series of similar entertainments at the White House calendar, the diplomatic and the congressional receptions having preceded it.

While in Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Drewry will be guests of their uncle and aunt, the Hon. Roy M. North, third deputy assistant to the postmaster general, and Mrs. North. Mrs. Drewry was before her marriage Miss Lucile North, only daughter of Mrs. E. L. North and the late Mr. North, of Atlanta. On their return to Jacksonville, she and Mr. Drewry will stop for a week-end visit to their mother. They will also visit those former Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Broach, in Richmond, Va., en route.

FISHING, swimming, sun bathing, dancing, attending horse and dog races and all the other amusements that tropical Florida affords in January were enjoyed by Sarah Bennett Ellis recently. She visited Bobbie Crew, that popular belle who is constantly on the go both here and abroad, at the apartment of her parents, the Henry B. Scotts, in Orlando. Other Atlantans there were Jack Tway and Bobbie's sister, Virginia Crew Cone. This party went together to Key West after a sojourn in Orlando, and as Mrs. Scott had several friends there they were there a grand time.

Mrs. Scott is awfully proud of the enormous African pompano she caught when they were out fishing in the gulf stream, as it is one of the largest ever caught in those waters. It will soon grace a plaque in her home as a memento of her feat. From Key West the Atlanta party went to Miami, and during their trip they took in all the famous night clubs, and were among the spectators at the fashionable races at Hialeah park.

Speaker Announced. Dr. Malcolm E. MacEachern, of Chicago, associate director, American College of Surgeons, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the private duty section, Fifth District, G. S. N. A., on Friday at 2:30 o'clock in the Georgia ballroom, Henry Grady hotel.

Grant Park O. E. S. Grant Park Chapter No. 178, Order of the Eastern Star, meets this evening at 7:30 o'clock in Grant Park Masonic temple, 464 Cherokee avenue, Southeast.

Lovely Bride-Elect And Her Fiance Are Complimented

Miss Anne Wynn Fleming and her fiance, Bruce Montgomery, whose marriage will be a brilliant social event of next Tuesday, were the central figures last evening at the dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Conklin at the home on Peachtree street. Mrs. Conklin will be an attendant in the wedding.

The guests were seated at three tables which were beautifully appointed. All were covered in white satin and were graced in the center by silver baskets filled with white calla lilies and all the appointments were of silver.

Mrs. Conklin received her guests wearing a beautiful model of brown tulle, fashioned with a floor-length ruffled skirt and trimmed with a single pink flower. Miss Fleming wore a handsome model of black trimmed in bands of iridescent sequins.

Mrs. Augusta Loyless entertained for Miss Fleming at luncheon yesterday at her Peachtree road home. Mrs. W. Troy Bivings, mother of the hostess, assisted in entertaining.

The table was beautified with Venetian lace mats. Blue crystal bowls used in the center of the table and the centerpieces were filled with red tulips, yellow anemones, white freesias and blue delphiniums in a mixed arrangement.

Guests numbered in addition to the bride and groom, the bridesmaids, Misses Ida Nevin, Adelaide Fleming and Madams Frank Player, Daniel Conklin, James Lee Pittman, Henry Poer and L. F. Montgomery.

Miss Patterson Weds Dr. J. M. Strickland.

CUTHBERT, Ga., Feb. 3.—The marriage of Miss Sarah Eulalia Patterson to Dr. James Monroe Strickland, of Albany, was solemnized here Tuesday at the First Methodist church. Dr. J. N. Peck, of Albany, a cousin of the bride, read the ceremony.

Mrs. L. M. Moye rendered a musical program on the organ and J. N. Peck, Jr., of Albany, sang. The bride entered with her father, Dr. Caldwell Patterson, by whom she was given in marriage. She was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, his brother, Frank Lee Strickland, of Panama City, Fla.

Miss Theresa Smith was maid of honor, and Miss Dora Hill, Miss Mary Trapp Harris, Miss Maudie Moore and Miss Margaret Owen were bridesmaids. Misses Echo and Ann Patterson, cousins of the bride, served as junior bridesmaids. The groomsmen were Eugene Stroud, of Atlanta; Leslie Patterson, brother of the bride; Julian Lay and Clifford White.

The maid of honor and the bridesmaids wore ashes of roses crepe romaine gowns, fashioned with brown accessories and clusters of tall-man roses and sweet peas. The junior bridesmaids wore crepe dresses in shades of roses with trimming of doublet. Their accessories were of doublet and their flowers were sweet-heart roses and forget-me-nots.

The bride wore a tailored suit of blue crepe with a beige Russian fox collar and navy accessories. Her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley.

After the wedding the bridal party and the members of the immediate families were entertained at a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents.

Dr. and Mrs. Strickland left for a wedding trip after which they will reside in Albany.

Perrin Walker Points for Place on A. A. U. Track Team

He paused here between trains. Old Leatherstockings is about all in. "Tough going, eh?" "Tough? Listen. This business of getting football players interested in attending the school where you are coaching is more than tough.

"The whole thing is going to pile down around our ears one of these merry days. But meanwhile, competition is the life of trade."

"They want too much?" "God help 'em. The high school football stars are being chased around and having this offer waved at 'em and this one and another one. They get swelled heads and only a kid with a strong mind is going to keep any sort of balance.

"The worst thing is their papas. I wonder what's become of the old-fashioned father who wanted to send his son through school and pay all the bills? And I wonder what's become of the kids who were willing to wait on tables and sweep out gyms and tend furnaces? In fact, I wonder if there are any schools asking that now."

"Where's the strongest competition?" "Eastern schools are moving in. It's a laugh. One of the solemn eastern institutions, one of the Ivy league members, is giving lots of competition through their alumni. Three eastern schools and two in the middle west are doing some rather active player-scouting in Dixie land. I've run into two of them and had reports on the other."

"He squinted at his wrist watch. "I wanted to ask you about that boy in Atlanta, the one I wrote about."

"He's all set at another place."

OLD DEERFOOT IS WEARY.

"Yes, sir," he said, "Old Deerfoot is weary. "You'd never guess the things we have to do. I ran into a proud papa up in Kentucky a few days ago. He sat around in front of his kid telling me how great the kid was and how the only game lost had been the fault of the coach.

"All he wanted me to do was guarantee his kid would play in the Rose Bowl game. Imagine that! All he wanted was a guarantee. I nearly laughed in his face. But I had to sit there and listen. He was all set. He has his plans made. He was going to the Rose Bowl game. He saw movie contracts—you should have met that papa. I felt sorry for the boy.

"At another place I had to take a chew. The old man was leaning on the gate when I drove up. He lives about a mile out of this little town in Tennessee. The boy and his mother were downtown.

"Have a chew," said he, handing me the plug. "I knew this one was going to be tough. I took a chew. I never have chewed. I was feeling a little pale around the ears when the boy and his mother got there. She got to asking me about the religious environment the boy would have there. I'm afraid we aren't going to get him. The preacher in their town is helping out another scout.

"These boys that talk about dying for dear old Alma Mater don't know what it is. Ask one of them if he has ever chewed tobacco for dear old Alma Mater.

"Twenty minutes before my train, isn't it? Gee, old Leatherstockings is tired."

PRAYER-MEETING AND RELIEF.

"Yes, sir," he said, "I've done a lot of things for the cause. "The other night down in this little town I drove up to this boy's house about 7 o'clock. I figured they'd be through with dinner.

"They were. They were just starting for prayer meeting. They asked me to go. When we got there the preacher asked me to pray. It was a little church and it seems this boy's father was a deacon. They figured I was a worker if I came with him. I did it. I'd never taken public speaking in my day. But I got up there and gave them the best I had. I think I'll land that boy. We offered him a scholarship. He's a good guard.

"The worst thing, though, was over in Louisiana." "You write 'em. I live 'em."

"What happened in Louisiana?" "There was a boy down there with a great reputation. I went down there. He was in a big town. Not a big city. A town.

"This was a new one. The boy's family was on a relief. The big man in the town, every town has a big man, had got the family on. They deserved it. He also was giving the boy a suit or so and a little spending money. The boy looked all right.

"But getting him fixed up would involve bringing his whole family along and getting them on relief. After I left there I just sat on a bench in the bus station and held my head in my hands.

"Maybe you're too sensitive." "I think I'm just weary."

"What was the daffiest adventure you had?" "I thought for a long time it would be the papa who wanted me to guarantee his son would play in the Rose Bowl. I felt pretty sure about that.

"But now, I don't know. There was one noble old gentleman who had skads of money. His son can throw, kick and carry that football. He's sure to be a star."

"What about it?" "This honorable gentleman said he had to have two scholarships—one for his son and one for his daughter."

"You told him where to go?" "I did."

"Here comes your train. Where now?" "There's a fullback up in North Carolina."

GRANT TROUNCES COOKE AS BUDGE DEFEATS SENIOR

Vines Mysteriously Absent, So Doubles Test Is Not Staged.

SURFIDE, Fla., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Donald Budge and Bryan M. (Bitty) Grant won their quarter-final matches in the Surf Club tennis tournament today, along with Arthur Hendrix, of Lakeland, Fla., and Charles R. Harris, of Palm Beach, but a match that wasn't played commanded greater interest.

A doubles test had been arranged between Budge and Grant, the country's first and third ranking amateurs, and Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry, the crack professionals now barnstorming here.

It was to have been played this morning, when the wind-swept court by the ocean presumably would be deserted since the tournament matches did not start until noon. It was not advertised in advance, and no admission was to have been charged. The sponsors took no chances of a large crowd of United States Lawn Tennis Association rules against such affairs.

CAN'T FIND VINES.

But a gallery of about 50 was on hand at the appointed time. A half hour passed, Vines failed to appear and could not be found at his hotel, and word went around that the match was off. The spectators went home.

There were some who wondered whether Vines' absence was as mysterious as the other three players as he was in the gallery. In any event none had any comment.

Grant, recovering from a cold, disposed of Ellsworth Cooke, of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-1, to enter the semi-final with Harris. The latter defeated Wayne Sabin, of Los Angeles, 7-5, 6-3.

In the opening set Grant won the first game on his own service and Cooke won his service, each game going to deuce three times. In the third game Cooke broke through Grant's service and Grant retaliated to take the fourth. Each held his own service to four-all and Grant ran out the last two games.

COASTS IN SECOND.

Grant coasted through the second set. Cooke was seeded seventh and Grant second. A strong breeze blowing in from the ocean hampered play.

Budge had the hardest workout, overcoming Walter Senior, of San Francisco, 8-6, 6-4. Hendrix, his semi-final opponent, eliminated Eugene McCaulliff, of Chicago, 6-1, 6-3.

Senior took a 3-1 lead in the first set but Budge captured four straight games before Senior won his own service again and then deuced the set. They won each other's services to go to 6-all and Budge then ran it out. After 2-all in the second set Budge led at the way. In the last game he had Senior at match point three times before coming to the net to put it away with a forehand drive.

Tomorrow will be devoted to doubles, which started today. The doubles semi-finals will be played Friday.

ANDREWS SEEKS A. A. U. CLEAN-UP

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Lorin Andrews, chairman of the national revision committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, sat back tonight and awaited a response to his campaign to "clean up" the A. A. U. rule book.

The Los Angeles attorney, president of the Southern Pacific Association of the A. A. U., sweeping invited athletes of the nation to forward all complaints and suggested rule changes to his committee.

Andrews said he hoped to gather a comprehensive idea of the likes and dislikes of the athlete members of the organization, place all its recommendations before the A. A. U. convention in Boston next December.

Andrews cited several rule changes he favored. One would nullify the law that disqualified an athlete from amateur competition if he announces he is "considering" offers for professional work.

"The commission indicated it would bar Max Baer, former heavyweight champion, from fighting heavy next March in New York."

The commission approved a ban on weight match between Sixto Escobar, champion, and Lou Salica, New York, to be fought at San Juan, Puerto Rico, February 26. It will recognize the winner as world champion.

Naps Take 32nd Victory in Row, Beating Decatur

North Avenue Presbyterian girls won their 32nd straight victory yesterday with a 40-32 decision over Decatur High Girls on the North Avenue court. The Naps were unbeaten last year and so far are unconquered this season.

Armstrong, McLaughlin and Zoll shared scoring honors with Armstrong leading with 16.

Broyles was outstanding for Decatur and scored 17 of the 32 points. North Avenue's guards played well as only Broyles was able to score consistently for Decatur.

North Avenue plays Cooper Hall in Rome, at 7:30 o'clock Friday night.

The lineup: N. A. P. S. (40) Pos. DECATUR (32) Zoll (16) F. Frank (3) McLaughlin (16) F. Broyles (17) Armstrong (16) G. Weller (16) Wham G. C. C. Brooks (5) Klugh G. N. Brodie Substitutions: N. A. P. S. Mother: Decatur, Williams, Edge, Roundtree.

15 Years at Druid Hills Is H. Stephens' Record

By Ralph McGill.

Harry Stephens, Druid Hills professional, today celebrates his 15th anniversary as professional at the club he has helped to make one of the best and most popular in the city.

Harry came to Atlanta direct from London and for 15 years has given to the club and its members skilled golf instruction, excellent course instruction and a genuine character and ability which have made him one of the best-known and most popular professionals in the Southeastern P. G. A.

Before coming to Atlanta he had gone to British East Africa and had constructed the first golf courses ever established in that section of the far-flung empire of Great Britain.

"My 15 years here have been 15 happy ones," he said last night. "I hope I can have 15 more here just as happy. I love the club and am proud to serve it and its members. I'd rather live in Atlanta than anywhere else and hope to spend the rest of my days here."

In all of which Atlanta concurs. The Constitution joins the rest of the city in congratulating Harry Stephens and Druid Hills on having one another.

Stephens has produced a number of excellent golfers who have qualified in national amateur tournaments and who have won important local and sectional honors.

He is an excellent man with clubs and with courses and the large and golf-contented membership of his club testifies to his ability and popularity.

LOUIS' MANAGERS THREATEN BREAK WITH M. JACOBS

Joe's Pilots May Go Over Mike's Head, Sign for Braddock Go.

By Charles Dankley.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The co-managers of Joe Louis threatened tonight to break with Mike Jacobs, New York boxing promoter, and sign for a heavyweight championship fight with James J. Braddock in Soldier Field, Chicago, June 15, "over Jacobs' head," if necessary.

The managers of the Detroit Brown Bombers are Julius Black, of Chicago, and John Roxborough, Detroit.

"We are dissatisfied with Jacobs' action with regard to the Braddock fight," Black declared. "We think it time Mike gave Louis a break and quit protecting Max Schmeling, whom he also has under contract."

Jacobs holds a contract calling for the exclusive promotional rights on Louis until 1940. He has staged two of his fights since February, 1935. A split up would dissolve the biggest fight combination since the Dempsey-Schmeling fight, which produced boxing's first million dollar gate.

"If Jacobs insists upon stalling we intend to break with him and sign for the fight ourselves," Black declared. "It is too big for us to pass up. When Sheldon Clark, the oil man, made us an offer for the Braddock fight, we asked Mike to sign immediately. Instead, we think he has been stalling. He told us he wanted to see what Schmeling would do first, and then left for New York without signing."

3 KNOCKDOWNS MAY END BOUTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Shorn of its highly advertised feature when Joe Gould, manager of Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock, failed to appear to demand return of forfeit money from the signed Braddock-Max Schmeling fight, the New York state athletic commission suspended one fight manager and announced a new knockdown rule today.

Jimmy Johnston Jr., son of the Madison Square Garden matchmaker and manager of Bob Pastor, was indefinitely suspended for failing to show up at the meeting.

Stirred into action by the death of Tony Marino, Pittsburgh bantamweight, after his fight last week against Indian Quintana, the commission announced it would frame a new rule whereby any fighter who has been knocked down three times in any one round would be automatically disqualified from continuing in that particular match.

The new knockdown rule will not apply to championship matches, explained General John J. Phelan, commission chairman.

Manager Gould failed to appear as he promised, telling reporters he would come to the commission when the right time came. Gould thinks the commission should return the $5,000 he posted as good faith that Braddock would defend his title against Schmeling in New York, June 3.

"We haven't been approached on the subject," said General Phelan. "All we know is what we read in the newspapers. There is a contract filed with us that says Braddock is going to fight Schmeling here in New York."

"We are concerned it is a legal contract that can be enforced."

The commission indicated it would bar Max Baer, former heavyweight champion, from fighting heavy next March in New York.

The commission approved a ban on weight match between Sixto Escobar, champion, and Lou Salica, New York, to be fought at San Juan, Puerto Rico, February 26. It will recognize the winner as world champion.

Georgia Scrappers Face South Carolina

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Foster (Red) Milton, Georgia Bulldog fighter, won the state golden gloves championship in 1936, and did not defend his laurels this season.

None of the members of the Georgia team will enter the meet to be held in Atlanta February 8-9, due to conflicting dates. Georgia boxers must be here to entertain the University of South Carolina.

The Armstrong Junior College team on February 10 will furnish the Georgia Bulldog ringmen their first opposition of the season in a meet to be held at Savannah.

On the result of a chemistry examination hinges the collegiate track future of Perrin Walker, ace Tech sprinter who will compete in the Millrose games Saturday night in New York. Coach George Griffin will know Walker's status Friday. Walker missed the '34 season because of scholastic difficulties. In time trials yesterday, Walker ran the 60-yard dash in 6.5, 6.4 and 6.6.

MEHRE SEEKING MORE RESERVES FOR '37 ELEVEN

Billy Mims, Ex-Purple Star, One of Promising Sophs.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 3.—In the opinion of Coach Harry Mehre the chief problem of Georgia's spring practice lies in building up his reserves both in the line and the backfield.

"I can get together 11 pretty good men," he commented. "But after that, then what?"

The friendly Bulldog mentor points out that he has several promising candidates coming up from the freshman ranks to work with. Among these are Billy Mims, former Boys' High left halfback; Oliver Hunsicker, ex-Lenox ace; Jimmy Farham, 200-pound fullback; Vanna Cates, Brunswick, left halfback.

Time during spring drills will be devoted chiefly to covering the finer points of the game. Pass offense, covering kicks, protecting the kicker, and returning kicks are among the things Coach Mehre hopes to develop during the eight weeks' period.

"We'll have at least three scrimmages. Then there will be the annual final game between the two divisions of the squad," he said. "I hope to hold the first skirmish within two and one-half months. Shoulder pads were issued Wednesday."

VOL MATMEN DEFEAT Y. M. C. A.

Wrestling fans were treated to plenty of action at the central Y. M. C. A. last night when the local "Y" team was defeated by the local University of Tennessee team. Two colleges were forfeited by the Y. M. C. A. to the collegians. Injuries sustained in the state tournament held here last week put a list of the "Y" grapplers on the shelf, making the two forfeitures necessary.

The Tennessee team was tired from a hard trip and probably could have made a better showing had this not been true.

The best match of the evening was between Nick Vlass, of the Y. M. C. A., and Captain Anderson, of the University of Tennessee. Nick planned the Tennessee captain after a flurry of action had brought the fans to their feet in a round of applause.

Rivaling this match was the match between Stanford, of the "Y," and Hayes, of Tennessee, in the "heavy" weight class. Hayes is captain-elect of the 1937 football team and quite a wrestler. Hayes outwrestled Stanford about 15 pounds as Stanford only weighed in at 174 pounds.

Charlie Willbanks, 132 pounds, and Jack Deacon, 145 pounds, won their matches from the collegians in great style. Charlie Willbanks, and Jack Deacon won a time advantage on Bradley. House won on forfeit in the 126-pound class, as did Hayes in the 165-pound class. Silva, 182 pounds, of Tennessee, defeated Swanson on time advantage and Jim Pantello, 175 pounds, of the "Y," won a time advantage over Shofner, of Tennessee.

The local "Y" team will meet the strong Chattanooga "Y" team in the "Y" gym here Saturday.

CHEMISTRY EXAM WILL DETERMINE RUNNER'S FUTURE

Coach Griffin Is Worried Over Result Which Is Due Friday.

By Jack Troy.

The fate of the Tech track team hangs on the outcome of a chemistry examination.

Which explains why Coach George Griffin was bowed down yesterday like a fellow carting a trunk down stairs on his shoulders.

Perrin Walker, the one-man track team, will know his fate Friday.

Walker ran second to examinations once before. It was in 1934. He missed that season because he didn't know the answers. Or at least, enough of the answers.

Meanwhile, Walker departs today with the basketball team for New York. Walker will run in the Millrose games Saturday night. Tech's tall basketballers will play the University of Pennsylvania five the same night in Philadelphia.

NEVER RAN INDOORS.

Walker has never competed indoors before. He is seeded second in the 60-yard dash. And yesterday he stepped off the 60 yards on the Tech track in 6.5, 6.4 and 6.6, running against the wind.

Coach George Griffin has no way of knowing how Walker will do indoors, but thinks he will do right well if he runs the 60 yards in 6.3. The wind yesterday probably sliced a tenth of a second off his time.

An ambitious track program has been worked out for Walker by Coach Griffin, depending on the outcome of mid-term examinations.

He is scheduled to run in all the dual meets, the Southeastern Conference meet and the national intercollegiate at Chicago in June.

EYES A. A. U. TEAM.

His chief ambition is to make one of the A. A. U. teams going abroad. One goes to Japan, the other to South Africa. Walker is pointing for a place on one of these teams.

Walker holds the Southeastern Conference track records for the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash. He ran the century in 9.6 at Birmingham and sped the 220 in 20.8 in the world labor games in New York last summer.

Walker has a 10-foot stride and is, potentially, one of the finest college trackmen in America.

If he should qualify for the finals Saturday night, Coach Griffin would feel prompted to try a double flip from a standing start.

And if the chemistry paper shows a passing grade, Coach Griffin would give an exhibition of high diving off the new gym into the proposed pool as outlined on the blueprints.

COLUMBIA RIVALS.

Walker's chief competition in the Millrose games is expected to come from a couple of Columbia runners, Ben Johnson and Harvey West. Marty Glickman, of Syracuse, and Hopkins, University of Virginia sophomore.

Johnson is a former A. A. U. national champion for the 100 and 200 meters. West recently broke the world's record for 100 meters indoors. He ran the distance in 10.6. Glickman won the 100-yard dash in the Sugar Bowl meet, and is a halfback on the Syracuse team. Hopkins has been burning up the Old Dominion boards.

Nine Basketeers Depart Today.

Coach Roy Mundorff and nine Tech basketball players will depart today at 1 o'clock for New York. A night-seeing trip is scheduled early Friday.

MAKE THIS FAMOUS 1 WEEK TEST

THAT HAS SHOWN THOUSANDS HOW TO BUILD UP MUSKY, NEW, RED BLOODED STRENGTH, NEW ENERGY AND AT LEAST 5 EXTRA LBS.—OR NO COST!

As a result of tests covering thousands of cases of weakness, lack of energy, poor blood and a rundown condition—many leading authorities now agree that very frequently the trouble may be traced to a lack of certain vitamins, minerals, and other essential elements. These elements, controlling the process of metabolism, receive an inadequate supply of natural iodine from the daily diet, in many instances this explains why such body building foods as starches and fats often fail to build weight, strength, and energy. This is why skinny folks with huge appetites often remain thin, worn out, ailing.

Now, however, with the use of Seedorf Kelpamalt, a mineral concentrate from a huge 90-foot sea vegetable harvested off the Pacific Coast, you can be assured of an adequate supply of this precious natural substance. It is richer in iodine than kelp, in addition to iodine, it contributes to the supply of other vital minerals necessary for digestion, building of sound tissue, good blood and proper elimination. By thus aiding digestion and assimilation you are able to get the maximum benefit from your daily food.

Try Seedorf Kelpamalt for one week. See if, like thousands of others, you don't feel better, sleep better, eat better, and add at least 5 to 7 husky new lbs. the first week. If you don't, the trial is free. It costs you nothing! Your own doctor will approve this way. Get Seedorf Kelpamalt today. Seedorf Kelpamalt costs but a few cents a day to use and is sold at all good drug stores.

THOUSANDS WHO HAVE MADE THIS ONE WEEK TEST FIND KELPAMALT:

1. Improves appetite. 2. Adds at least 5 to 10 lbs. of good, solid flesh. 3. Improves digestion. 4. Helps banish ordinary stomach distress. 5. Helps bring sounder sleep. 6. Gives new strength, energy and endurance. 7. Helps clear up skin.

THE COOKING MOTHER BOOK

By RUTH CHAMBERS.

There is a provocative flavor about meat which has been cooked with the addition of a spicy, sweet-sour liquid such as cider, pickled peach and pear syrups, cranberry sugar, and certain fruits which themselves contain sweet-sour juices. Recipes for such dishes are often handed down from mother to daughter, and are treasured highly. The woman who aspires to the title "A Good Meat Cook" will have at least one or two among her frequently used recipes.

TODAY'S DINNER
 Savory pot-roast
 Carrots, onions, potatoes cooked with the meat
 Sliced tomatoes
 Apricot Bavarian cream

in flavor, and when used with pot-roses, which they frequently are, this flavor combines well with the meat in the period of long, slow cooking. Lemon juice is sometimes used, and often the lemon rind is shaved into the liquid to add its pungent oil to the combination.

Cuts for Pot-Rosies.
 Such cuts of beef as chuck, rump and flank are good ones to use in the recipes here given. They are in the pot-roast group of meat cuts, and the cooking time is long for the addition of liquid and long, slow-cooking, to soften the connective tissue which is present. The mild acid of the fruit juices of different vinegars adds in the softening process and helps bring tenderness as well as give flavor.

Chopped Beef, Sweet-Sour.
 1 pound chopped beef
 1 onion, grated
 1 egg
 1 tablespoon matzoh meal
 To Salt and pepper
 1-4 cup yeast
 1-4 cup sugar
 1 lemon, sliced
 1 tablespoon butter
 1 tablespoon flour
 1-2 cup hot water
 Mix first five ingredients and form into small balls. Combine water, sugar, raisins and lemon, and pour in meat balls. Allow to cook slowly half an hour. Mix butter and flour and use to thicken gravy. Allow to simmer a few more minutes before serving.

Spiced Steak.
 2 pounds beef flank
 3 onions
 1-2 cup vinegar
 1 tablespoon salt
 2 teaspoon cinnamon
 1 bay leaf
 1 teaspoon pepper
 Cut meat into cubes and brown in beef drippings or bacon fat. Slice onions into a stew pan, add meat and enough water to nearly cover. Add raisins and lemon, after mixing cinnamon and sugar with the vinegar. Bring to the boiling point and allow to simmer 2 hours or until meat is tender.

Savory Pot-Roast.
 4-12 pound chuck pot-roast
 2 onions
 2 cloves garlic, sliced
 1 teaspoon salt
 1-8 teaspoon pepper
 Brown meat in fat and brown in beef drippings or bacon fat. Slice onions into a stew pan, add meat and enough water to nearly cover. Add raisins and lemon, after mixing cinnamon and sugar with the vinegar. Bring to the boiling point and allow to simmer 2 hours or until meat is tender.

DRIVE ON BARMAIDS URGED BY PASTORS

Western Parley Hears Criticism of Liquor Sale by Sex Appeal.

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A national campaign to "take women out of the liquor business" was outlined at an inter-denominational church meeting today.

Dr. Edward Delor Kholstedt, of Philadelphia, president of the Home Missions Council of America and executive secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church board of home missions, said church groups throughout the United States will be asked to join in a drive to prohibit employment of "barmaids" in saloons.

He spoke at a conference of 125 Protestant pastors of the Rocky Mountain states.

The national city ordinances appear to be the best means of attacking the problem of women barmaids, the Philadelphia asserted.

"Church members after mixing cinnamon and sugar with the vinegar. Bring to the boiling point and allow to simmer 2 hours or until meat is tender."

Dr. Kholstedt estimated there are 100,000 women barmaids employed in the United States. He admitted that not so prominent as men in tending bars, he said, but are employed principally as stimulants to the purchase of more drinks.

"In other words, their employers are putting sex appeal into the sale of liquor," he charged.

He noticed a woman will smoke cigarettes and drink three cocktails to each one that a man will take.

"Once they start down the negative, the man will more rapidly than men, not because they are morally more weak but because they are more sensitive. That is why it is impossible to remove these women barroom employees from their present dangerous environment."

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.
 NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Raw sugar was unchanged today although it developed that a late delivery was a sale of 15,000 tons of brown sugar for February shipment to a local refiner at 3.65, a decline of 3 cents from the previous day.

There was no interest at this level today with an additional sale of 27,000 tons of white sugar for March shipment.

Futures were irregular with both contracts displaying a steeper tone during the middle of the session on trade covering in the No. 3 as well as Cuban sugar, while the No. 2 was sustained by a heavy commitment to the market.

There was a decline in the No. 3 closing 1/2 to 2 points net lower. Sales were 13,000 tons. No. 4 closed unchanged, with July declining from 1.16 to 1.14. September's uplift off from 1.45 to 1.46.

1-3 cup raisins
 2 bay leaves
 1 cup boiling water
 Brown onions and garlic in a little butter with salt and pepper and brown on all sides. Add raisins, bay leaves and boiling water. Cover tightly and allow to simmer for 1 hour, or until tender. Remove meat, allow to cool, strain liquid. Use this liquid to make gravy, allowing 2 tablespoons of liquid to one cup of meat. One half pound of meat, whole carrots, onions and potatoes may be added. Serves 8.

Metropolitan Special or Russian Steak.
 2 pounds round steak
 2 cups sliced onions
 4 tablespoons lard
 Flour
 Pepper
 1 cup water
 1 cup soup cream
 Dredge steak well with flour and cut into individual servings. Simmer onions in lard until golden but brown. Remove onions, and brown meat in lard. Season with salt and pepper, and add onion, water and soup cream. Cover and allow to simmer until meat is tender. Allow about 1-1/2 hours.

Lamb on Brochette.
 Purchase 2 pounds lamb steaks or about 3-4 inch thick. Cut them in strips 1 inch wide, then cut crosswise into 1/2 inch squares. Make a marinade of 3 tablespoons olive oil, 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 minced onion and 1 teaspoon salt. Cover the meat with marinade and let stand several hours. Drain and put on skewers with a square of bacon between each two pieces of lamb. Broil, turning frequently until done.

Soup Cream Veal Fricassee.
 2 pounds veal shoulder
 2 tablespoons flour
 2 tablespoons lard
 2 large onions
 1-2 pint soup cream
 Paprika
 Salt
 Pepper
 Slice the meat cut into 1-inch cubes for stew. Slice the onions and brown them in hot lard. Dredge veal with flour and brown in fat also. Cover with water and pepper. Simmer for 1 hour. Remove steak and onion and let cook until thickened. Serve with potatoes cooked in the jacket.

Deviled Chuck Steak.
 2 pounds chuck steak
 2 tablespoons flour
 2 tablespoons lard
 1 large onion
 1 teaspoon mustard
 1-2 cup hot water
 1-8 teaspoon paprika
 1 teaspoon salt
 1-8 teaspoon pepper
 Cut chuck steak into pieces for individual servings. Dredge with flour and brown on both sides in hot lard. Season with salt and pepper. Slice onion over the top, dot with mustard, add hot water to which vinegar has been added. Cover closely, and cook in a moderate oven (350 F.) for 1 hour. To serve, remove steak and thicken the remaining liquid with gravy.

Rome Assures Vast Air Base To Serve Only as Protection of Route to East.

MILAN, Italy, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Foreign ministers of Turkey and Italy in two conferences lasting almost 10 hours, sketched the broad outlines of a pact for the eastern Mediterranean agreement today.

Premier Mussolini's youthful son-in-law and foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, declared by Turkey Foreign Minister Tevfik Rustu Aras were understood to have arranged Italian participation in the Montreux convention which gave Turkey the right to return the Dardanelles to the Count Ciano assured Rustu Aras informed sources said, that Italy's extensive air and sea bases in the Dodecanese islands, particularly at Leros, were not designed to serve against Turkey but to protect Italy's route to her East African possessions—just as Italy protects Great Britain's route to the east.

The Italian minister was said to have assured Turkey that ambitions in the Balkans were not revived in 1917 and immediately after World War, have been abandoned a "satisfied" Fascist empire.

Italy took credit for its Turkey relations of the last 22 years was viewed as the negotiators sought basis for understanding.

It was believed Mussolini considered the time to make friends with Turkey, first allying Turkish suspicions and defining spheres of influence, in the hope Italy could outflank Turkey in its drive to reach Russia—a move which Reichshein Hitler, of Germany, was said to oppose.

Anglo-Turkish relations were strained during the Ethiopian war and after Italy's refusal to attend the Montreux conference.
